BILLY CASTELLANO

One more year and we'll be radical Seniors. But everyone knows we're gonna be the coolest. We'll have to start off with the rowdy grades. we're gonna show everyone and prove to ourselves we can handle. You're really understanding in your own special way and I'll always TRUST you. We go back along ways with memories and they'll always be treasured. There will be a hell of a lot more. That's a fact!! You mean a lot to me and you always will hold a big part of my heart (SMLE) Through thick and thin I want to always have a close friendship with you, "that's special." Jesus is a big part of life, at that keep him close to you and continue to love him. we're gonna have to make plans to visit HORIZONS it's the coolest! Best wishes to you and Scott (Hairball jr.) I know you guys make it all special! He takes extra good care of you and I know he'll never hurt you. He's such a Sweetheart. Thank to you guys for introducing Henry/I. I really respect you for who you are and everything you do!! Montana's gonna be a heavily-killer time. I appreciate all you do for me and especially for always being there when I need you, even when it's times I need a shoulder to cry on. I'll always be here for you. Don't ever hesitate! Take care and I love ya like a sis! Your family is the neatest!! Your lucky

Thrills

Summer was over, the beaches were empty and lonely and there was just enough time to say the last goodbyes to friends you met during summer. September came and so did anticipation of seeing old friends and new faces. Seniors looked forward with enthusiasm toward the future realizing what people had always told them was really true; "Your senior year is the most important year of your life." Besides thinking about the important things in life, they always tried their hardest to let people know that they were SENIORS! Juniors gave sighs of relief now knowing that they were no longer the little guys on campus but now in a worse position, "The middle." Through all their troubles and good times, college and careers were now being planned.

As always, people always knew who the sophomores were when they asked, "Where are the bathrooms?" After a while, the newness of school wore off and everyone was back into the "Old routine." A few classes and sports were cut but the dances, pep rallies, lunch time activities and seasonal sports made up for everything that was cut and brought out high spirits and more chances to get involved.

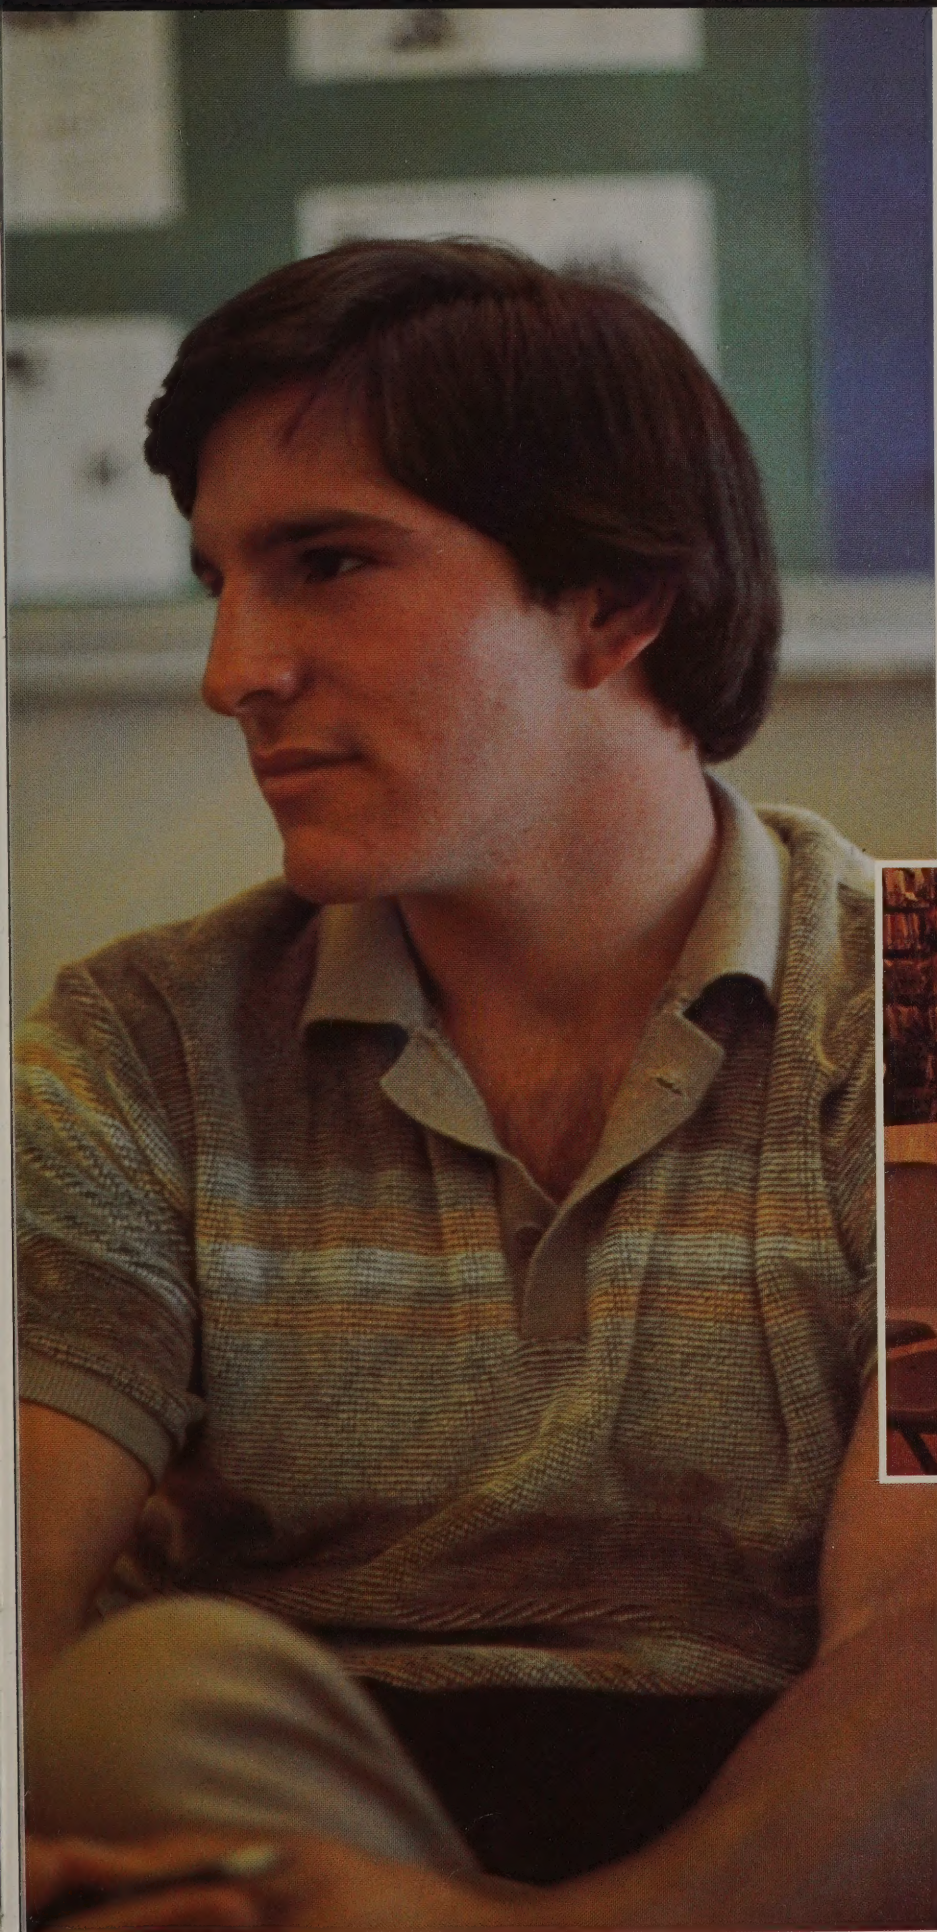

Aside from school life, much happened outside of Madison's campus. Box office hits were reaching new heights with 99¢ movies. Spielberg's E.T., Poltergeist and Raiders of the Lost Arch were grossing millions. Football season was upset by the football strike. San Diego fans were dissapointed but behind the Chargers all the way. Rolf Benirschke's 99 yard field goal in the imaginary game against the Raider's will never be forgotten.

The poisoning of many store bought items brought fear into many homes. Wars in the middle East were very important among the world affairs. Reagan succeeded in his economic plan, but unemployment reached a new high.

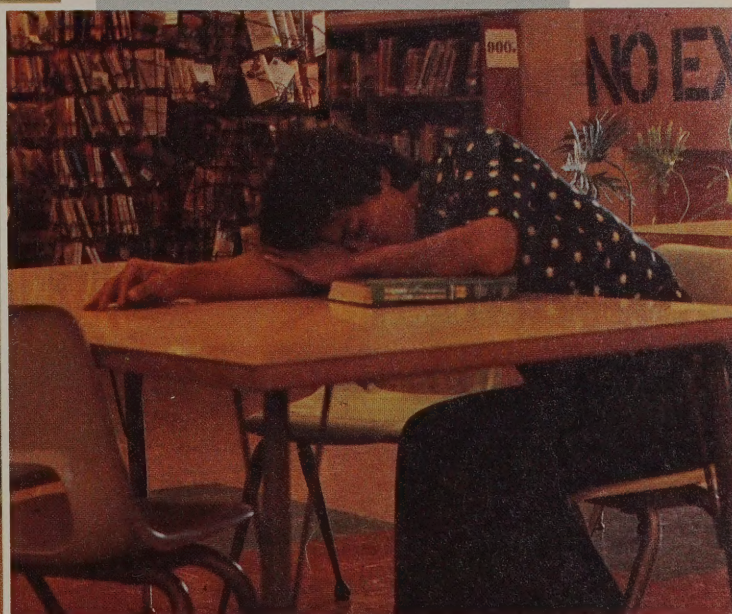

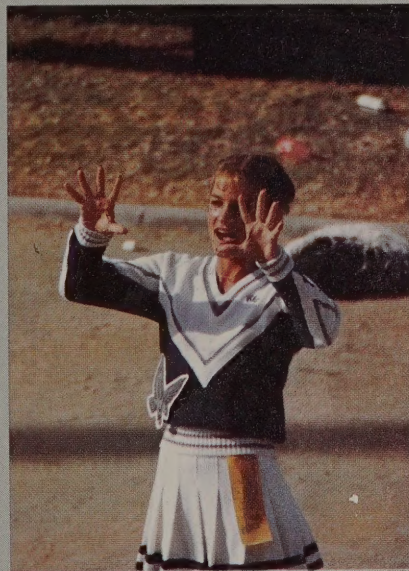

Madison's 1982 Homecoming Queen, Marjorie Burton stops to smile after hearing she's won.

Homecoming Queen nominee Tammy Brown and her escort Kenny Lantz, await to hear the outcome of the voting.

Cheri Shaffer, are we VICIOUS? Oh yes! ooh ooh ahh ahh ooh ooh ahh...

During his prep period, Hue Vuong concentrates on his studies.

Ready To Face All Challenges

Short hair and the preppy look continued to grow, while tuxedo shirts and high and low pumps were also brought into the fashion scene. Another year had begun. It would be full of good times and the memories would be planted in the hearts of many. Our year spent at Madison High will always be a time ... AS BEST REMEMBERED!

There was more than just the excitement of football games and other sports. Homecoming was as successful as ever before. More organizations participated in having floats, including the alumni class of 1973. To finish the evening off in a very special way, many students and the alumni students attended the dance.

Many of Madison's athletic teams went into CIF playoff games. Besides the victories of our teams, many of us were determined to face all the challenges that we were about to run into. Looking back on those challenges, we see our personal victories and many goals we have met with success.

1. The first performance of our Male Cheerleaders, demonstrated by Kenny Lantz at Madison's first pep rally. 2. Robert Constantine takes a break between periods. 3. Head Cheerleader, Lori Butland directs the cheers during lunchtime events at Homecoming. 4. Senior, Reggie Farmer, concentrates on the game.

Excitement

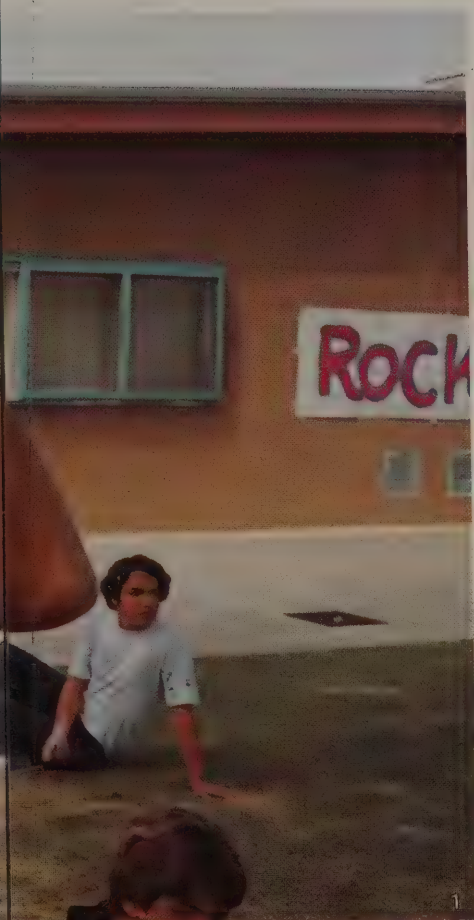

Victories of our teams and personal victories were a very important part of our year at Madison.

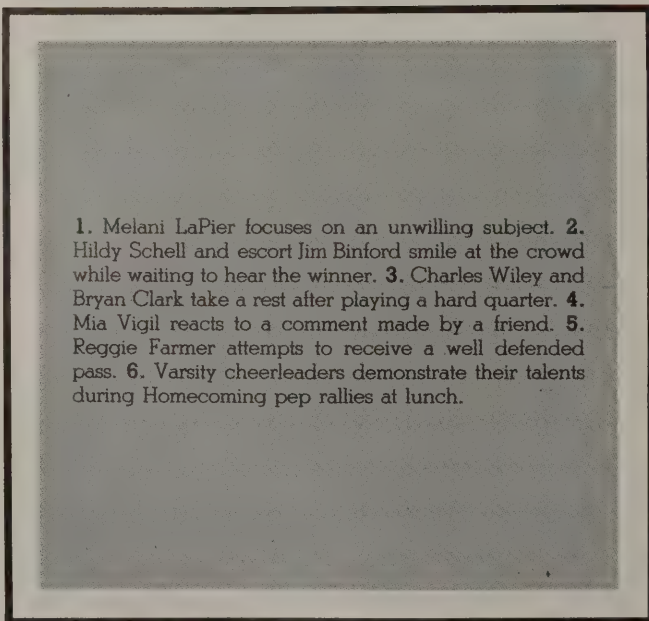

1. Joe Mitch tries to show off his masculinity during his lunch break. 2. Ronnie Taylor and Shannon Hinkle watch a lunchtime pep-rally. 3. Mr. Mobley shows that he desperately wants a snack. 4. Michelle Michaels leads the crowd in an away game.

1. Melani LaPier focuses on an unwilling subject. 2. Hildy Schell and escort Jim Binford smile at the crowd while waiting to hear the winner. 3. Charles Wiley and Bryan Clark take a rest after playing a hard quarter. 4. Mia Vigil reacts to a comment made by a friend. 5. Reggie Farmer attempts to receive a well defended pass. 6. Varsity cheerleaders demonstrate their talents during Homecoming pep rallies at lunch.

No Longer Just A Girl's Job

This year at Madison we had something new; along with eleven girl cheerleaders, there were six guys. This was the first time in approximately five years guys have cheered. They weren't required to try out in front of the school because they weren't real sure how the school would accept them. The try outs were held the week following the girls' try outs.

The school did accept them quite well, but there were a few remarks made towards them. When asked how he delt with these comments, Senior Eric Foott said, "There has been a few bad comments toward us guys, but I just let them go by. I'm out there just having a good time, and that's all that counts, right?"

The guys helped the girls in executing different stunts and pyramids. Head cheerleader, Lori Butlin said, "I hope there will be guys interested enough to try out for it next year. It's really fun working with them."

This year's male cheerleaders proved to be a real asset to the squad and helped the spirit to soar this year at Madison.

This year, as in every year, many movies tried their luck in theaters across the nation. One movie, though, is doing extremely well. The movie E.T. is doing so well that by the time it leaves the theaters, it will be the biggest money maker of all time. E.T. grossed over 200 million in its first four months. Even off the screen, E.T. was making money. The craze produced products in the form of bubble gum cards, bumper stickers, coffee cups, jackets, lunch boxes, notebooks, pencils, posters and toys. One month after the film's release, Reses Pieces candy sales had gone up forty-five percent.

E.T. is a very unique film. It is a fast moving fantasy that creates a few tears as well as laughs. It is a story all ages can enjoy. It also creates a satisfyingly complex moral for our sophisticated world. E.T., the spaceman who has touched millions of human hearts, is truly one of the biggest heroes in movie history.

One of the world's problems this last year was very close to home for San Diegans. Mexico, only a few minutes away, underwent one of the most devastating economic recessions in the world. Before it was over, the peso, Mexico's national currency, would drop from 45 pesos to a U.S. dollar, to 115 pesos to a U.S. dollar. This was the result of the Mexican Government's decision to let the peso scramble for what ever it could on the world market.

With the peso dropping in value by 100%, new opportunities were provided for Americans. American businesses were prospering because they were still paying wages at the 45 peso to the dollar rate, when the exchange rate was 90 pesos to the dollar. San Diegans could go to Tiajuana and buy gas, groceries, and other items for one half of what they were before the devaluation, but this did not last long. The Mexican Government was to soon impose restrictions on the amount of gasoline and groceries non-citizens could take across the border.

One of the severest restrictions was the freeze of all dollars in Mexican accounts. Americans with Mexican accounts could not withdraw their money. This was because the Mexican Government was in servere need of U.S. dollars to pay its foreign debt of 80 billion dollars. Most of that sum was owed to U.S. banks. The Mexican Government got an extention on its loans, but still had to pay the interest. This did, however, ease the restrictions at the border.

On the border, San Yesidro was one of the hardest hit of U.S. towns. Many of the businesses accepted pesos. When the peso was devaluated, business dropped of 80% at many of the shops. There were many foreclosures. A new business was thriving though. Thirty new exchange businesses opened in San Yesidro. More than one million dollars was being exchanged each day. Armed guards were present at every store. This did nothing to help revive Mexico's sagging economy. Mexico has a new president, but it is too early to tell whether he can solve their problems. One thing has become clear. A thriving Mexican Economy is important to the United States.

San Diego Hosts Soccerbowl

On September 19, 1982, San Diego played host to the NASL Soccerbowl; an event that has been in existence in North America since 1975. Hosting this event is considered to be quite an honor, as all soccer fans would agree. San Diego's mayor, Pete Wilson, recognized the occasion with much pleasure and enthusiasm, stating that: "Professional and amateur sports are a vital and valued part of this community. We appreciate the tremendous contribution that our local NASL franchise has made to the city, and thank you for bringing this exciting league championship to Jack Murphy Stadium." Wilson also expressed his gratitude toward the NASL for selecting San Diego to host such a prestigious event.

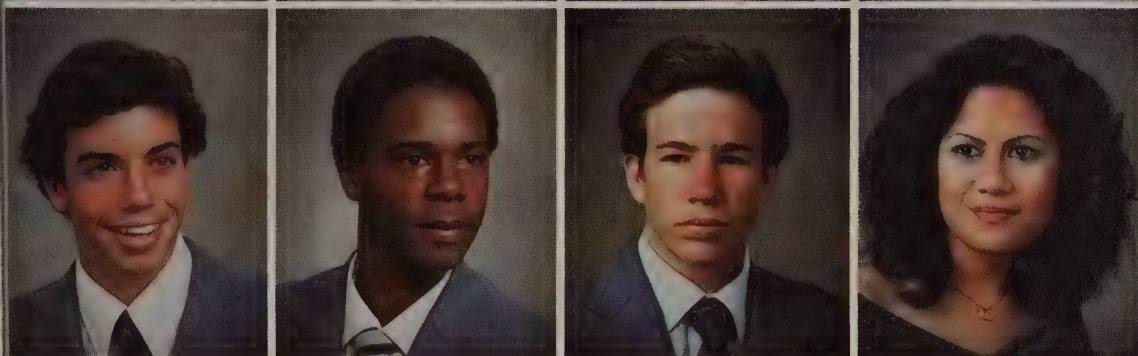

To begin the evening with dignity, one of soccer's all-time favorites, the legendary Pele', made an appearance before the match. For pre-game entertainment, Pele' and his entourage of local youth players, jogged around the entire field of play, waving arms, dribbling balls, and flashing smiles. A powerful racket arose throughout the stadium as fans applauded and cheered for Pele'.

This year's contenders were two old rivals, the Seattle Sounders and the New York Cosmos. The game was action packed and, like any professional sporting event, nerve racking. The first half was a close forty-five minutes; each side desperately working play after play, racking their brains for a new strategy that would break the other team and allow a goal to be scored. Minutes before the half, the Cosmos scored. The man who sent the ball flying past the goalkeeper was Giorgio Chinaglia. The whistle blew and the two fatigued teams retired to the locker room. With the Cosmos in the lead by a point, Seattle played the remainder of the game without enthusiasm. It was obvious they would gladly settle for second place. The 1982 Soccerbowl was concluded with a 1-0 victory for the New York Cosmos. Once again they had overcome their opponents to take yet another Soccerbowl.

The quiet star is gone! Henry Fonda, who died in August 1982, was one of America's greatest actors. He left behind over seventy films by which he is publicly remembered. The self-taught actor with the mysterious personality made each movie character he created seem inevitable.

After flunking out of the University of Minnesota, Fonda made his big break on Broadway in the 1934 version of New Faces. This led to his great Hollywood career. His first success was The Farmer Takes a Wife, in 1935. One of the most famous and dramatic of his films was The Grapes of Wrath, where he portrayed the character, Tom Joad.

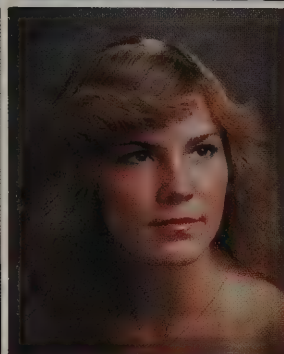

Fonda had five wives. He reported that he was ashamed to be married so many times. His second wife, Francis Brolaw, gave him his children, Jane and Peter. Later he adopted a girl named Amy. With Shirlee Adams, his fifth wife, he seemed to achieve peace and stability. His daughter, Jane, commented that while married to Shirlee, he became more affectionate and less angry.

Perhaps the climax of his life would be the film, On Golden Pond. Working with his daughter brought them closer together, and for Jane, she felt those days on Golden Pond brought her and her dad together at last. For this film, Henry Fonda received his first Oscar of his near half-century in Hollywood.

One of the newest and most exciting aquatic sports is windsurfing. It is a combination of surfing and sailing. Though it looks difficult, it is an easy sport to learn and does not require a lot of strength. The equipment is based upon the standard surfboard, but is a little longer and carries a sail. It is maneuvered like a sailboat, into and out of the wind. All that is required is water and wind. Windsurfing can be done on the bay, on lakes, or through the surf with a stiff ocean breeze. For the beginner, owning his own equipment can be a little expensive, but there are a lot of places around San Diego where the equipment can be rented. Two examples are the Mission Bay Aquatic Center, and the San Diego Sailing Center.

When wind surfboards were first invented in the late 1960's, they were just used for enjoyment. Now, there are competitions all around the world. This past year, the North American Championships were held at San Diego Bay. Windsurfing is also an unofficial sport of the 1984 Olympics. For pleasure, for competition, or just for the fun of getting wet, windsurfing is a sport for all ages, from junior to grandpa.

The World Losses A Princess

This year, the world lost a princess. Princess Grace of Monaco, at fifty-two, suffered a stroke while driving with her seventeen year old daughter, Stephanie. The world had followed the life of this cool, sophisticated beauty from the Philadelphia mainline, through a brief but glamorous career in Hollywood, to the world of royalty as the Princess of Monaco.

Dr. Jean Duplay said Princess Grace suffered a brain hemorrhage. She was kept on an artificial life support system until her husband, Prince Ranier II, ordered the machines unplugged. Her death was painful to many old friends, friends from Hollywood, and Europe's royal families who converged on Monaco. Nancy Reagan, Frank Sinatra, Princess Diana, the wife of the French President, Mrs. Danielle Metterand, King Michael of Romania, and about five hundred others, attended her funeral on Saturday, September 18, 1982. Her funeral was held in the Cathedral of Monaco, where Princess Grace was married to Prince Ranier II, twenty-six years before. She was laid to rest in a vault inside the cathedral with other members of the princely Grimaldi family. The services were conducted by the Arch-bishop of Monaco.

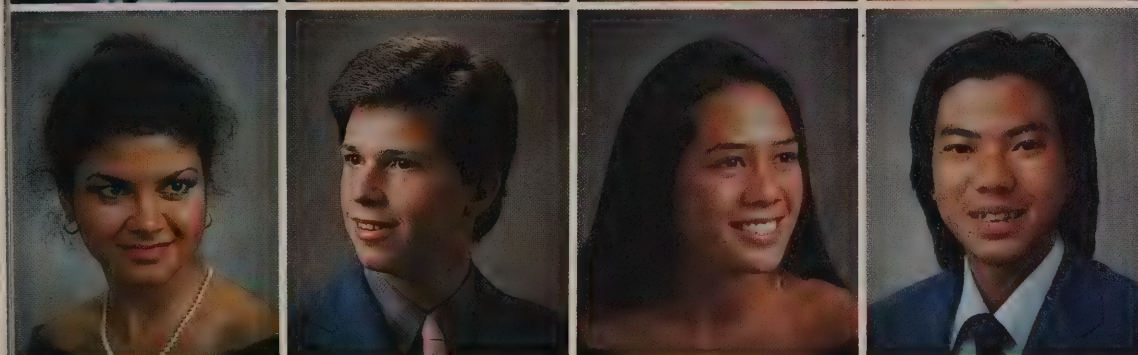

As Grace Kelly, Princess Grace's first movie was Mogambo with Clark Gable. People knew her by appearance, as a Princess, and as an incredibly beautiful actress who won an Academy Award for best actress in The Country Girl. She acted beside such stars as Clark Gable, Bing Crosby, Frank Sinatra, and James Stewart.

Steven Spielberg is a thirty-four year old man who has never grown up. He is Elliot in E.T. He is the smooth and daring adventurer, Indiana Jones, in Raiders of the Lost Ark. He is the little boy in Close Encounters of the Third Kind. He is the brave sheriff in Jaws. He is . . . the ultimate story teller. Steven Spielberg is also one of the most successful film makers in the country. He has directed such movies as Jaws, Close Encounters of the Third Kind, Raiders of the Lost Ark, and his most recent movie, E.T., the extra-terrestrial.

Spielberg has learned how to inspire fear in others, and it is through our fears and anxieties that he is able to tell us a story about ourselves. In Jaws and Raiders of the Lost Ark, he shows us the line between fear and the will to survive, and that when pushed too much, man's will to survive is stronger. In Close Encounters of the Third Kind and E.T., besides telling us that "We are not alone", Spielberg expresses the idea of contact and eventual acceptance of alien beings in our society. He has also shown us that even though we are a highly advanced society, as for dealing with unknown beings or each other, we still have quite a ways to go.

There is no question that Steven Spielberg's movies are entertaining, but if we learn something about ourselves or others, or just come out of the theater with a happy feeling, all the money and time was worth while. Steven Spielberg has learned how to touch America's soft spot through his movies. It's up to us to keep a soft spot there for him to touch.

1982 was an election year, and Madison students were involved in an unusual program. The program was called Voter Turn On '82. Even with the economy the way it was this past year, Robert Price, owner of the Price Club, offered cash prizes to high school activity programs for their efforts to register voters. Voter turn out generally runs below 50%, and he felt the public wasn't involved enough in the election process. Madison High School was in a competition zone with University City High and Clairemont High. Prizes were offered for the most new registered voters and highest voter turn out. $8,000 would go to the school who registered the most new voters, and had the highest turn out. $5,000 was offered for second place, and $2,000 for third place. A grand prize of $10,000 was offered to the leading school in all zones, which included fifteen high schools.

The cash incentives looked good to schools faced with limited activities budgets. Under the direction of Mr. Wolfe, and with a tremendous effort by the PTA, the ASB organized the school's efforts. Madison students organized car washes, had a cheerleading competition, and organized an assembly to stir up interest. They called voters, put up posters, and distributed door hanger reminders.

The school held a mock election to tabulate student opinions on the candidates and issues. The outcome showed Madison students to be more liberal than the general public, but it made the students aware of the issues. A city wide contest was held for a poster to advertise Voter Turn On '82. The winning poster was created by a Madison student, Brad Constantine. Voter turn out was greater in this year's election. How much can be attributed to this program is difficult to say, but Voter Turn On '84 is already being discussed.

Unite Us In Song

They said it couldn't be done, but Steve Wozniak did it! He gave us his version of a "better" Woodstock. The code name was UNUSON, Unite Us in Song, but to the rest of the country it was known simply as the US Festival.

The US Festival took place on 500 acres of land in Glen Helen Regional Park in Devore, California, 55 miles east of Los Angeles. Steve Wozniak, vice-president and co-founder of Apple Computers, and the festival organizer, said he wanted "to throw the party of the century." His party cost him a reported 12.5 million dollars. "800,000 of that went toward hiring Bill Graham. Bill Graham, 52, a well known rock promotor, hired the rock groups and developed a tight security system for backstage access.

The festival assembled, in total, 300,000 people for the concerts. Tickets sold for $37.50 for three days, or $17.50 for one day. The music was provided by groups like The Police, The Grateful Dead, Jackson Browne, Fleetwood Mac, Carlos Santana, Jimmy Buffett, Pat Benatar, Tom Petty, and The Heartbreakers, The Kinks, The Talking Heads, Oingo Boingo, Jerry Jeff Walker, Eddie Money and the Cars, The English Beat, The Ramones, The Gang of Four, and The B-52's.

The festival was considered a "better" Woodstock because it was better organized. There were 1,880 porta-johns available, and parking lots with shuttle buses to prevent traffic jams. Problems did arise. The fans didn't expect the 106 degree heat. Two medical teams treated more than 2,000 people for heat exhaustion, cuts, and bad PCP trips. Tank trucks sprayed fans with water during the concert, but the water created mud.

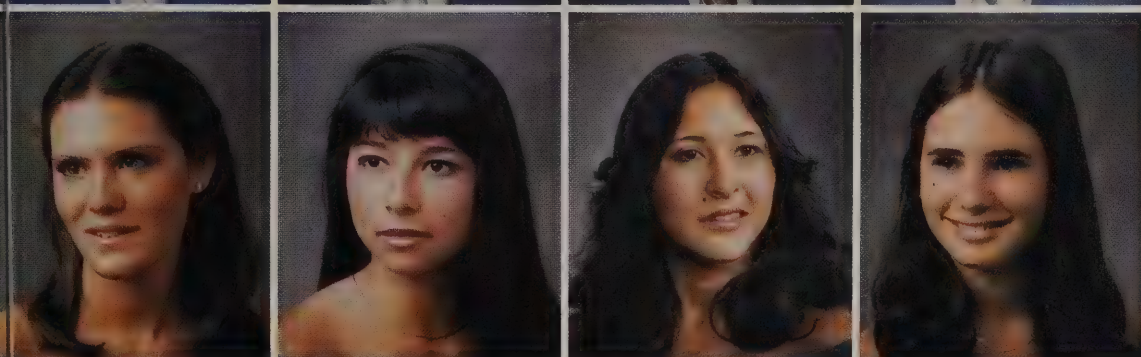

Despite the heat, the fans had a good time. There were two huge screens on each side of the stage to give a better view of what was taking place. They also screened concerts from Moscow via satellite. The fans were also entertained by sword swallowers, puppeteers, clowns, mimes, and electronic computer marvels in six tents. Everyone got what they wanted, the ultimate rock concert. Steve Wozniak is reportedly planning another festival, so this may not be the last time he "Unites US in Song."

Many Madison students have long considered skiing a fun winter sport. After many years, we finally got a ski club here at Madison. The man in charge is Tom Hetherington. Many students approached him about the idea, and he contacted the administration to get the necessary permission. There were organizational meeting, and the club began meeting every Tuesday after school. Mr. Hetherington planned field trips for the students on weekends to learn how to ski, and to learn to care for their equipment. During the school year, the club planned outings to Big Bear, Mammoth, and Brianhead. There were forty to fifty students in the Ski Club. Mr. Hetherington said, "The initiation fee was $10.00. $4.00 went to the Boy Scouts of America Insurance, and $6.00 went into a fund to buy tune up equipment and a hot waxer." The club hopes to grow and be able to continue this exciting winter sport for future Madison students. Tom said, "Skiing is a challenging and exciting sport." As long as students stay active and can meet the costs, there will be a Ski Club here at Madison.

Let's Get Physical

Every day, on the weekend, after school, or after work, millions of Americans ran to one fitness center or another. Olivia Newton-John's single Let's Get Physical helped develop another fad-exercising. After her hit record, memberships went up, and new fitness centers opened everywhere. No longer did we see the plain black leotard. We did, though, see the ones with polka dots, matching tights and head bands. The price of these items also went up, but they were needed for "the look." The biggest hit that came from this craze was aerobics and jazzercise. It showed that exercising could be fun. It also made stretching those legs less boring and tedious. Music brought the whole idea together. Suddenly, many claimed to be professionals at exercise. Jane Fonda became very popular when she came out with her workout manual and album so the exercisers could enjoy themselves at home. Hundreds of books and records appeared, filled with fast music and instructions on how to melt that fat. The exercise craze was picking up. For millions of Americans it proved to be one fad that, besides entertaining them, was good for them too!

SENIOR MEMORIES

When we began school, we wondered what was ahead of us. As we moved on through school and completed our high school years, we grew and experienced many different things. These twelve years in school have helped us to grow and helped each of us to become an independent person. For many of us, this will not be the end of our schooling. The next step is college, but these pages will reflect what the past twelve years have done for us, or to us. Each entry has its own personality and character. In the years to come, as we open our yearbooks and turn to the Senior Memories, reading them and remembering the wonderful years we spent in school, we will relive those years. Each Senior Memory remains an expression of the beautiful thoughts and memories shared by no one but the person who wrote it. Knowing this, we are sure these pages are filled with your high school experiences- as best remembered.

You'll always have a special place in my heart cuz your #1, luv ya always DEWEY! Most of all my family, UR the best, especially my mom who puts up w/ me always I LOVE YOU!

Bedoe, Joe: In 10th grade had some good times with Robin, Lisa, David and all. Thinking High School was going to be killer. Eating school food and getting sick. In 11th grade had good times with R.T., D.C., D.T., A.A., M.B. and all. Going to the desert and the beach. Not eating school food. In 12th grade had some great times with all the maidens. Kicking back in Mr. Mugg's class with Mike, Billy and all. Getting Art and Sister Lori, listening to all their stories. Finding out school wasn't killer. Knowing in the future that I would read my senior memory and would think back at all the good times. "D.C. getting married!"

Bennett, Lisa: Cherie and Deb, I'll never forget the wild and crazy summer, Wed. State dance, Santa Clara Point, Terminoine, Kate Sessions, Ice sliding?, Law Street, Black Flag at 10:00, Chips 82, Andre, Quarter's class at P.W.'s. $30 ski sessions, Mexican Mom, staying the nite at Deb's! Todd you were special. Wish I could help you, Nadine. I love you Willie. I hope the years to come will be as wonderful as the last few.

Hom, Samson: I regard high school as the stepping stone to a greater experience. From the beginning of high school we've grown from naive little gnomes in a world of giants to mature adults ready to face the real world. As we go on our friends will either continue school and/or go off and start their new lives. Some we may see and some we may not see again. Madison High is the foundation from which our memories shall be recalled, and the memories of our youth shall remain.

Horne, Kimberly A: I'll never 4get my senior year. All the fun I had with in the back of the bus with good friend telling jokes, 3rd per. w/Desmond T, Deanna G, Robert J, Kenny G, and T-Row. This isn't the end only the beginning.

Lahera, Omar A: When I was sophomore, I had a hard time learning new things at Madison HS, especially my classes of PE and ROP. As time pass by, I begin to improve myself in a different subject like mathematic, reading, and the others. When I'm senior, I dream about having more computers in my classes because they help me to improve to learning my skills in many interesting things.

"We managed to stumble through our last three years in a perpetual fog, unsure of every move we make. Thanks to God, family and my best friends for being those bright spots in my fog.

On October 27, 1982, approximately 50,000 fans crowded into San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium to hear the powerful British rock band The Who. This wasn't just another concert for the band, it was their farewell tour of the U.S., and marked roughly, their twentieth year in existence.

The Who formed in the mid-60's as a top mod band. Their manager greatly encouraged the young teens to wear mod clothing and play a mod style of music which was currently a popular craze sweeping England. Soon after the hit release, "My Generation," The Who were all well on their way to a successful musical career. Eminent works such as the rock opera, Tommy, and the film, Quadrophenia, gave Townshend and The Who world wide acclaim.

In the early days, The Who were especially known for such acts on stage as smashing guitars and demolishing drum heads. Keith Moon became known as "Moon the Loon." In the seventies, The Who were a forceful, vibrant band, but in 1978, the tragic death of spirited drummer, Keith Moon, struck the band hard. Consequently, songwriter/guitarist, Pete Townshend, relied heavily on drugs and alcohol. The Who started having problems. With new addition, Kenny Jones, they went back into the studio to record "Face Dances," which never really succeeded, and was not up to par with The Who's potential. Townshend was still heavily using alcohol. Roger Daltrey, lead vocalist, decided it was time to "shape up" or "ship out." As a result, Townshend shaped up. But The Who were tired and getting old. With the release of their new album, "It's Hard," Daltrey and Townshend determined to plan their farewell tour. They agreed it was time to quit the road trips and settle down.

Tickets sold out at every performance. Here in San Diego, crowds lined up at all participating agencies to buy tickets for the final performance. The Band played for almost two hours, singing such hits as: "Behind Blue Eyes", "Substitute", "Sister Disco", "Baba O'Reily", and the deafening "Won't Get Fooled Again"; plus many cuts from the new album, "It's Hard."

The evening was filled with excitement, thrills, and a few injuries. Crowds pushed and shoved one another in front, hoping to catch a glimpse of the sweating musicians. It was truly a night that will never leave the minds of those who attended. The band says that there may be a possibility that they will continue to record in the studio. Here's to The Who, for much success in the future.

Channel twenty-eight on cable television has become a very popular fad this past year. It is called M-TV, Musical Television. It shows a great variety of bands from around the world. M-TV is very popular with teenagers, and tends to keep them 'glued' to the television set. It has different kinds of music, ranging from Heavy Metal to Punk Rock, so everyone can see what they like best. It also has concerts which are broadcast from different parts of the world. There are concert specials on weekend nights and world premier videos are shown about every three weeks or so. Concert information is given for bands playing in the United States.

I Want My M T.V.!

has what they call Music News, which is when they tell facts about some particular band. Contests are also a large part of M-TV. What they do is have people write in and tell them what band they would like to meet. A name is drawn out of a big barrel, and that person gets to see their favorite band in concert where ever they are playing at that time. Then the winner and three friends get to meet the band in person. M-TV has commercials like a regular station. This gives them time to put together 'sets' of videos to play. Right now, M-TV doesn't cost anything for cable TV subscribers, so anyone could have it. M-TV will probably continue to grow in popularity.

M-TV, usually about every three hours,

Fad diets-do they really do what they claim? In high school being thin is in. Everyone wants to be thin. There seems to be an unlimited number of fad diets. These provide quite a range of ways to take off fat.

A popular diet is the Cambridge Diet. This is a protien drink that replaces meals. This diet can become expensive. $10.00 a shot! Any weight loss is generally temporary. Is it worth it? Other popular diets are the stewardess Diet and the Scarsdale Diet. These two consist of chemical breakdown. This method deprives the body of needed nutrition and chemicals. There are also fruit and vegetable diets. An example of this is the Beverly Hills Diet. There are many others of course. This diet consists of eating fruits and vegetables for about fourteen days, and that's all there is to it.

These fad diets attack the attention from everywhere. There are books, commercials and advertisements. They must make quite a profit! Everyone goes for the idea of being thin. Yet these diets are not all they're cracked up to be. The effects usually last about two weeks. There is an immediate weight loss and everything is great. In a week or two, the weight pops right back. This weight roller-coaster is very strenous on the body. Most doctors would advise against these methods. The best diet is to eat three meals a day, using the four food groups of course, and controlling the amount of food eaten. Exercise is a must! But don't cheat! Cheating won't bring the desired results. Good Luck!

The skelton of King Henry's flagship, the Mary Rose, was lifted from its under water grave at the bottom of the English Channel. It sank in battle with the French Armada, on July 19, 1545. Henry VIII was best remembered because he had six wives, but during his reign, his private life had great influence on English political history. He also helped England become one of the world's greatest naval powers.

King Henry's flagship was named after his sister, Mary Rose Tudor. The remains of several crewmen, rats, and a dog were discovered in the hulk. The supplies found on the ship indicated that the crew ate chicken, mutton, fruit and fish. The flagship, Mary Rose, was welcomed to the 20th centry by a cannon salute from nearby Southsea Castle. The toots of foghorns from dozens of pleasure crafts, divers, and some 2,000 spectators on shore were there to greet her. Officials said, "The damage to the framework would be repaired." A Mary Rose trust fund was started to raise the money for the flagship to be repaired.

It is a real experience! It can last for a year or just a summer. It allows students to meet new people. It allows them to live in a new environment, and best of all, it takes place out of the country or out of the state. It is the American Field Service, or AFS.

AFS has existed for at least thirteen years at Madison. It is an organization that allows students to go abroad for a year or for a summer. These students spend that year or summer with a host family in the particular country chosen. AFS has branches and operates in fifty-seven countries, and families here host them. It is not necessary to host a student in order to go abroad. The costs of going abroad are substantial, but with the help of the AFS club, made up of other students, it is easy to raise the money. This year the club had many candy sales.

A Real Experience

Some faculty members who help with AFS at Madison are: Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Harvey, and Mr. Steinmetz. These faculty members and people from the community are part of the selection committee. This selection committee screens different students in order to select which ones will go abroad. Madison's committee screens their students more than any other group.

The students going abroad this summer on the summer program are: Lisa Loftus, Audrey Weeks, Corey Nettles, and Noelle Beach. The students going abroad next year on the year program are: Patrick Trepianier and Dean Hervey. These students, beside learning about another culture, and experiencing new people, will come back; according to Mrs. Bates, "Usually with great self confidence, which makes it all worthwhile."

Offroading is quickly becoming a very popular sport for both professionals and those who "Do it in the Dirt" just for fun.

Here at Madison we have both. Mark Hirtz, a junior, races in both motorcross and desert races. He races in the open expert class in both. He rides a Husquavarna XC430. Mark doesn't ride for fun, it is strictly competition.

Mark sponsors himself which costs about $5,000 a year. Mark's favorite places to ride are, El Centro, Carlsbad and speedway 117. Mark's goal is to have his pro license and hopefully get sponsored by the Husquavarna factory. There are only two pro licenses given every two years to each district, but the American Motorcycle Association feels that Mark is eligible for his, possibly this year.

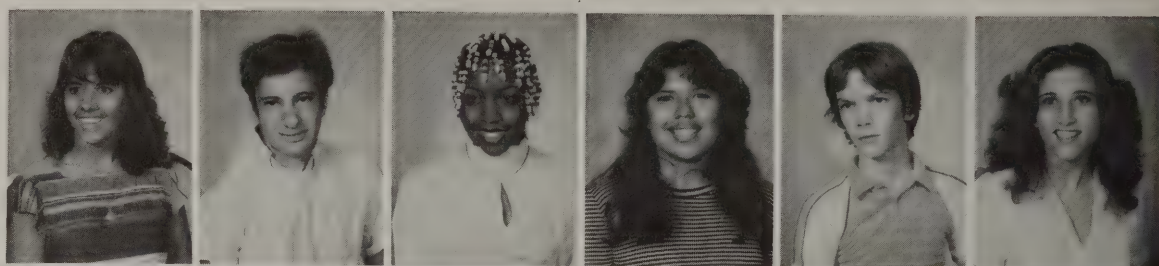

There are a lot of riders at Madison who ride for fun; Randy Tillery and Jeff Moody ride motorcycles. Both ride Yamaha 175 Enduros. They ride mostly at Salton Sea or Borrago. Both would like to try to race in competition sometime in the future, but they feel they need a lot more practice.

Scott Murphy, Darren Tichenor and Ronnie Gongora all ride Honda ATC's (All Terrain Cycles). Their favorite places to ride are Buttercup, Superstitions and Ocotillo. None of them have any desire to race professionally. They want to keep on riding just for fun, even though the cost can get pretty high to keep their ATC's running well. They each spend about $350.00 a year. They don't feel the high costs are keeping people away though. Scott says, "It's getting more and more popular, but with so many inexperienced people riding, it is ruining it for those who do know what they are doing." It is difficult for riders who are serious to deal with riders who go to the desert to drink and "goof off". Luckily the majority of the people who do go out try to be safe and careful of others. People all over who know how to ride get that special feeling when they "Do it in the Dirt."

This year we had a new member added to our varsity football team. Not a senior or junior, but a sophomore. Yes a sophomore! He was one of the two quarterbacks, and he not only stood six foot one, but weighed 150 pounds. He was a unique athlete and tried to do his very best in every game. This young sophomore who was fifteen years old was Marty Lewis. He liked playing on the varsity team, but at times he wished he were on the J.V. so he could help out the team a little, and help them win more games. Not only did the varsity players call Marty a "rookie", but he was the only one who got teased because he didn't shave.

Marty rotated with the other quarterback

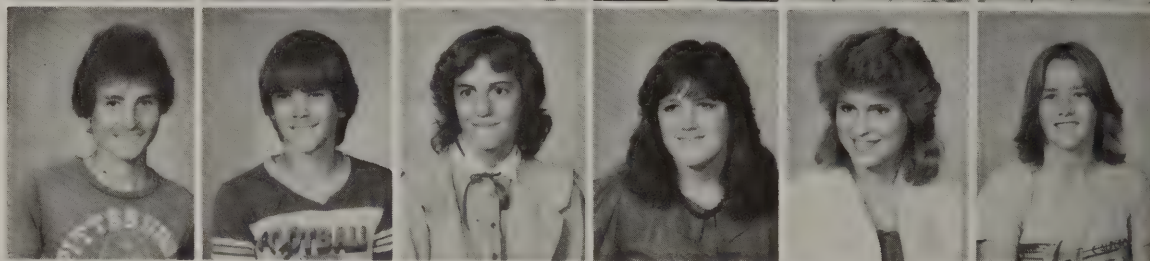

Little But Big!

when our team had the ball. When it was Marty's turn, he tried to do as good a job as the other team members. Marty's goal this year was to be one of the top ten in passing, and to throw twelve touchdowns. By the fifth game, Marty had already thrown six touchdowns. He said that during the past summer, Reggie Farmer, a senior on the Varsity team, had helped him practice throwing and passing for the quarterback spot. Marty said if it wasn't for Reggie's help, he wouldn't be on varsity. Midway through the season, Marty was ranked seventh among county quarterbacks in yardage gained passing (135.6). Marty gave us exciting football by throwing every other play.

Ever since proposition 13 there have been many cutbacks in school. You may have noticed the cutback with custodial help just by looking around the classrooms and campus.

There also has been a cutback on the school's budget. They haven't been getting as much supplies as they used to. Each year the prices on the cafeteria food have been raised and you get less food for your money.

Well, that's not all it has done. This year they even cut back on some of the school sports. This means that there will be no more J.V. Field Hockey, J.V. Swimming, for boys or girls, or J.V. Soccer.

One of the biggest effects of proposition 13 is the cutbacks on staffing of the teachers. For the last four years our September enrollment is always smaller than the real number of students our school ends up with. Since the staffing depends on the number of students than attend Madison we always run into problems.

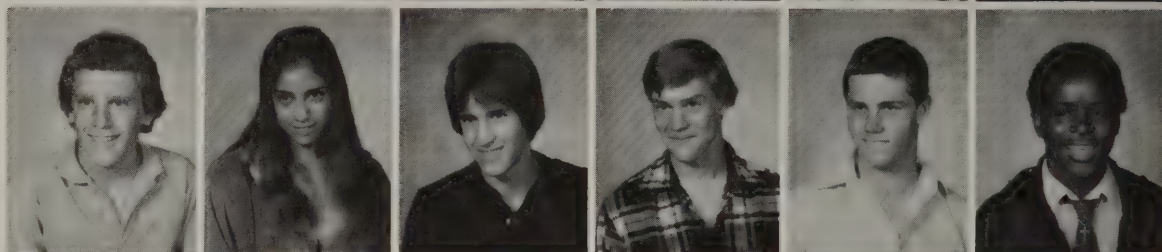

Every year since proposition 13 has been passed they have cutback on something. Who knows what will be left in the years to come.

This was a gubernatorial election year. It proved to be a very important election for San Diegans. There were many controversial propositions such as: the nuclear-freeze act, the handgun law, and the proposal to have a deposit on all bottles and aluminum cans. The nuclear freeze referendum passed, but the gun control and can control went down to defeat.

California also elected a new governor, Republican, George Dukemejian, who barely beat out Tom Bradley, the Mayor of Los Angeles. It was a year for conservatives, and liberals and liberal ideas fared poorly.

The big news for San Diegans though was that Mayor Pete Wilson out dueled Governor Jerry Brown for a seat in the United States Senate. In early polls, Wilson was tagged the easy winner, having over 60% of those polled in his favor. Yet as time went on, issues were discussed, debates were held, and Governor Brown closed the gap to only a 6% edge for Wilson. On the day of the election, Brown took an early lead in the balloting, but after the polls were closed and the final votes were tallied, Wilson pulled ahead and won. Jerry Brown's political career seems to be in a holding pattern, but San Diego's Pete Wilson has moved on to the National Arena.

At the end of last year's baseball season, there was some doubt as to whether or not Steve Garvey would remain a Los Angeles Dodger. When his contract was up, the Dodgers offered him a four year, five Million dollar post. Garvey turned it down and became a free-agent. In the draft, Garvey was picked by many teams, among them was the Padres. Then came the bidding! Most of the teams dropped out, but there were a final three consisting of the Chicago Cubs, San Francisco Giants, and the San Diego Padres. After many weeks of negotiating, Garvey finally settled terms with the Padres.

He reportedly signed a five-year, seven million dollar contract. Also included in the contract were incentive clauses. Garvey would receive an extra fifty-thousand dollars if he was the National league MVP, or every time he makes the All-Star Team, if he is the MVP of that game, or if he is the MVP of the Championship Series, or the World Series. He also would receive extra if attendance surpassed 2 million, 2.2 million, or 2.5 million fans.

To the Padres, this seemed worth it. They now have the right-handed power they so desperately needed. They are also solid at first base for the first time since the days of Willie McCovey. They are hoping that if the Padres should be in the race as they were last year, Garvey will be the veteran to guide the team to a World Championship.

A Night To Remember

To the Homecoming Nominees, October 22 was a Night to Remember. Nominees were, with their escorts: Hildy Schell, Jimmy Binford; Cindy Hill, Jaime Rivas; Tammy Brown, Kenny Lantz; Vickie York, Mike Anderson; and Marjorie Burton, with her escort Duane Burton. There was a lunch time Pep-Rally performed by football players and cheerleaders. Homecoming ballons and flowers were sold for that special someone during spirit week. Before the football game with Mira Mesa, floats were shown. Some of those that participated were: Yearbook, Drama, and Sophomore, Junior and Senior floats.

At half time, Leanord Thompson, announced the winner of the homeroom door decorating contest. Room B-7 won the free lunch. The Class of 83 won the float competition for the third year in a row. Madison won the football game, 12-7. Last year's Homecoming Queen, Maryanne Donovan, had to give up her crown to Marjorie Burton, the 1982-83 Queen. Marjorie Burton, was asked what her Night to Remember would be. She said, "It's and evening with close friends down at the beach with a bon fire, being crazy, and enjoying the peacefulness of the stars above on a clear night." The same evening, after all the waiting and excitement, Side F'x's and Dj Classe' performed for Madison's Homecoming Dance.

1. Homecoming Queen 1982-83, Marjorie Burton and her escort Duane Burton. 2. Laura Jackson shows precision during a half time routine. 3. Hildy Schell, Tammy Brown, Marjorie Burton, Cindy Hill, and Vickie York were Homecoming Queen nominees. 4. Madison's defense rushes against Mira Mesa. 5. Betsy Beaumon leads the band in the next song.

The Day They Came To Madison

This was the day. The day they came to Madison. There were creatures big and small, green and silver. Some from different time eras, some from different movies, and some from Mars. These creatures invaded the campus Friday, October 29, and claimed to be students. Yes, this was Halloween Dress Up Day at Madison. It was the day that Madison students got a chance to show everyone else how they really dress at home. A lot of the students who dressed up participated in the lunchtime costume competitions. This year during first lunch, Renee Sicat won for best over all costume as a jack in the box. During second lunch, Patricia Vivas and Lorena Escamilla won for best over all costume as Raggedy Ann and Andy. Everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves, even a cowboy and a hippie who claimed to be Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Hollenbeck.

1. Jessica Friedman looks for Tonto on her way to class.
2. Leonard Thompson introduces another costume entry, before surgery. 3. Sheri Van Ert, and Rose Sicat enjoy looking at the other costumes during lunch. 4. Maurice Williams shows her peculiar style of dressing. 5. Dennis Wilson glances at the camera between prayers as Amy Quatman stands in her warrior costume. 6. ROP students escort the children from a day care center on a Halloween walk.

This Night Was "For You"

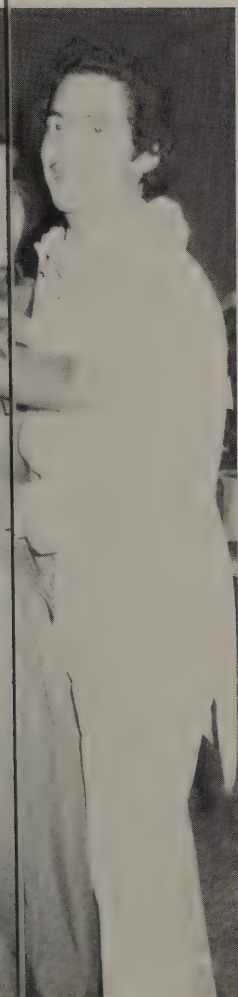

"This years A.S.B. Ball was a sell out and a very-big success", commented A.S.B. President Leonard Thompson! The Ball was held at The Stardust Hotel for the first time and was packed with 350 students. They not only sold out every bid but there was so much excitement that everyone enjoyed themselves. The A.S.B. Ball theme this year was "When You Wish Upon a Star" and "For You" was the theme song. The music was provided by the Automatics and soul disc jockies Billy and David Lopez." The band and disc jockies were very good and everyone enjoyed them", commented Suzanne McKaig, Chairperson of the A.S.B. Ball Committee. This years A.S.B. Ball Queen was Sherrie Van Ert. She commented, "I was very excited when I won and I had a great time." Junior and Sophomore Attendants were Judy Flor and Tessie Esteban. This years colors were unique, "Red and Gold." The night ended with the closing slow dance and the song "For You."

1. The 1982-83 A.S.B. Ball Queen, Sherrie Van Ert, is escorted to her table. 2. Marcella Quinjencio and Troy Buck wait patiently to hear the announcements. 3. What a sell out this dance was! Look at the crowd! 4. Sophomore attendant Tessie Esteban and escort Julian Herrera slow dance after being announced winner. 5. Front Row: Suzanne McKaig, Marcella Quijencio, Judy Flor. Second Row: Marie Perez, Sherrie Van Ert, Kim Wilson. Top Row: Trisha Loftus, Tessie Esteban, Lisa Raagas.

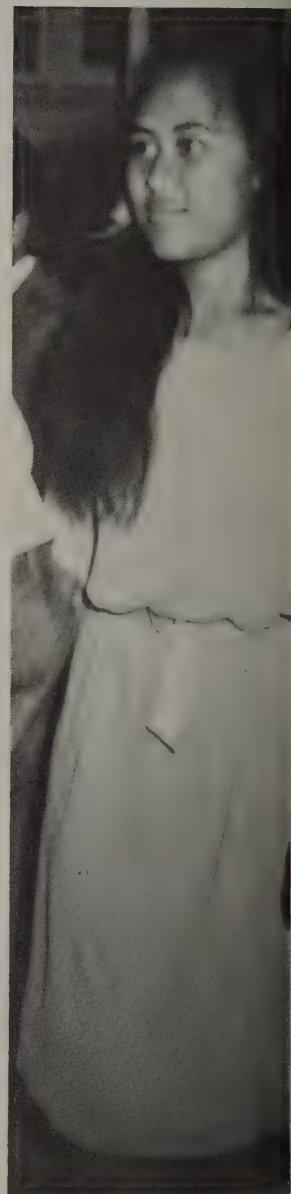

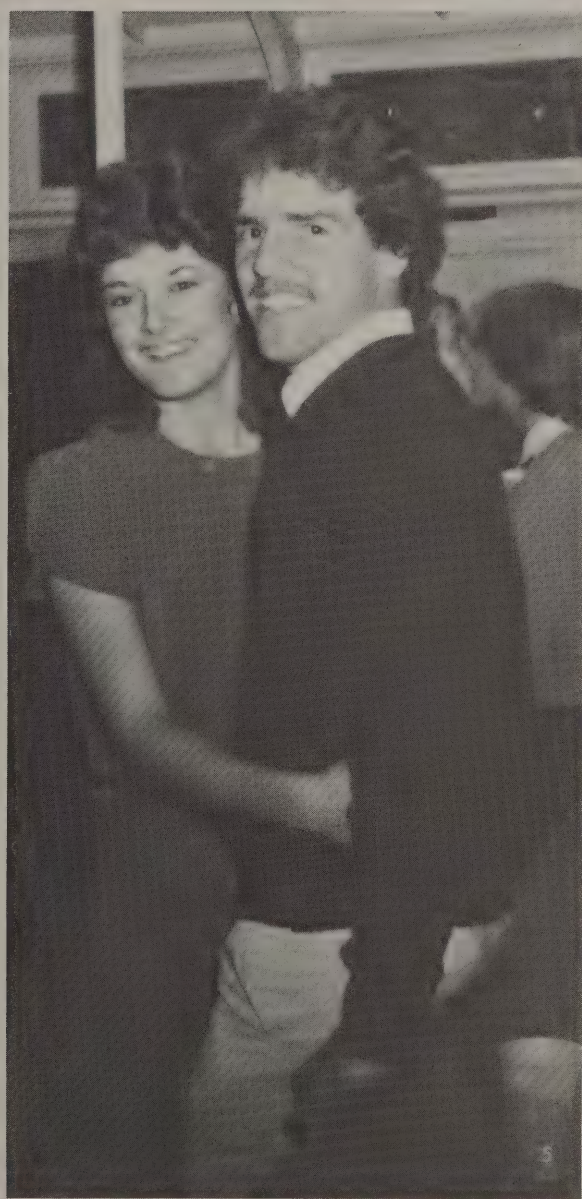

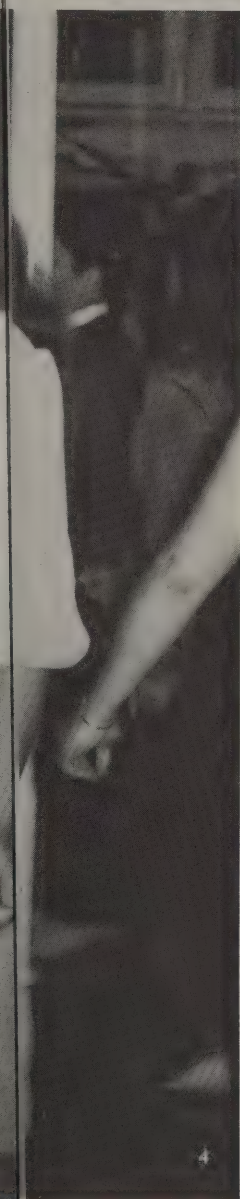

"You And I" At Sweethearts

This year's sweethearts dance was held on the boat, The Berkely. Once again it was ladies choice to take her favorite man. This dance was supported by Madison's Associated Student Body. Tom Tomovich, the Associated Student Body treasurer, stated, "Our goal was not to make money, it was to break even and have an enjoyable evening."

This year we had Captain nominees. The nominees were Eric Schaldach, Tito Arenas, and Reggie Farmer. Reggie Farmer won the position of Captain. This was a night that should not be forgotten.

1. Cheri shows her true devotion to Reggie on ladies' night. 2. Nominated captains, Reggie Farmer, Eric Schaldach and Tito Arenas take a break from the dance floor. 3. Victor Velazco and Melani LaPier relax after a hectic dance. 4. Rita Koria is grooving away. 5. "Surprise! Manny and Lisa, What's going on?" 6. While waiting to be seated Darius and Chenequa, Anthony and Felicia, Robert and Sherry take a fast pose.

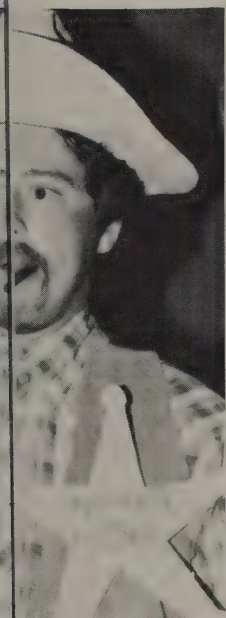

The Last Roundup

Madison's Sadie Hawkins dance was very successful this year, thanks to the ASB council and chairperson Janet Mullen, who organized the whole event. About 150 couples participated in the traditional style of girl ask guy. Most of the people who attended wore blue jeans, overalls, and straw hats, while dancing to the sound of KSON country radio. The dance was held in the gym, which was an excellent facsimile of a country barn, minus the animals. There were many activities during the three and a half hour hoe-down, such as a quick country hitch-up, old time photographs, and a jail for law breakin' citizens. In the annual Mr. Leggs and Daisy Mae contest, nominees were Tolly Long, Mike Anderson, and Clyde Gains for Mr. Leggs, and Tara Kuglen, Cheryl Flowers, and Kelly Carl for Daisy Mae. Tolly and Tara were the 1983 winners. For all, the country bash turned out to be a grand' ole night in the barn.

1. Tara Kuglen and Mike Cravens get hitched by Marrying Sam. 2. Ron Ames and Jaime Rivas await their release from the Madison jail. 3. Romone Gomez, Diane Quinlan, and Dennis Wilson dance to the KSON Radio beat. 4. Willie, the Mad House Marshall searches for another convict. 5. Bryan Clark and Dawn Emert in their matching hillbilly attire. 6. Lisa Loftus, Donna Boggonnie and Mike Cravens stand with the winners, Tara Kuglen and Tolly Long of the Mr. Leggs and Daisy Mae contest.

Rallies Catch The Spirit

Rallies at Madison High School were part of the many ways the Madison students showed their spirit. Rallies this year were during extended lunches, which meant shorter classes for everyone. Most of our rallies coincided with important school events; the start of school, voter turn-on, homecoming, and the start of each sport season. The Varsity Cheerleaders took responsibility for the fall sports rally where they performed a dance cheer. Troy Weidlich commented, "It was fun performing in front of the crowd because they were so fired up for the fall sports season."

This was the first year that rallies were put on by the ASB. Marcella Morris, co-chairperson with Janet Mullen, for the winter sports rally commented that the rally turned out great. She also said that the really hard part about planning the rally was coordinating the coaches, players, pep band, and the cheerleaders. All the rallies took weeks to plan, and each included competitions between sports teams and cheering routines performed by the cheerleaders. Rallies provided spirit, not only for everyday, but for the whole year.

1. Crowd watching at the Fall Sports Rally. 2. Waiting to be announced is the Varsity Football team. 3. Cheerleaders execute one of their sharpest pyramids. 4. Showing his spirit at the Voter Turn-On assembly is Mr. Mobley. 5. Preparing to show their routine is the Drill Team. 6. The Band blowing there horns at the first assembly of the year.

Dr. Zapotka and Prof. Gruber watch as Charlie drinks down their formula.

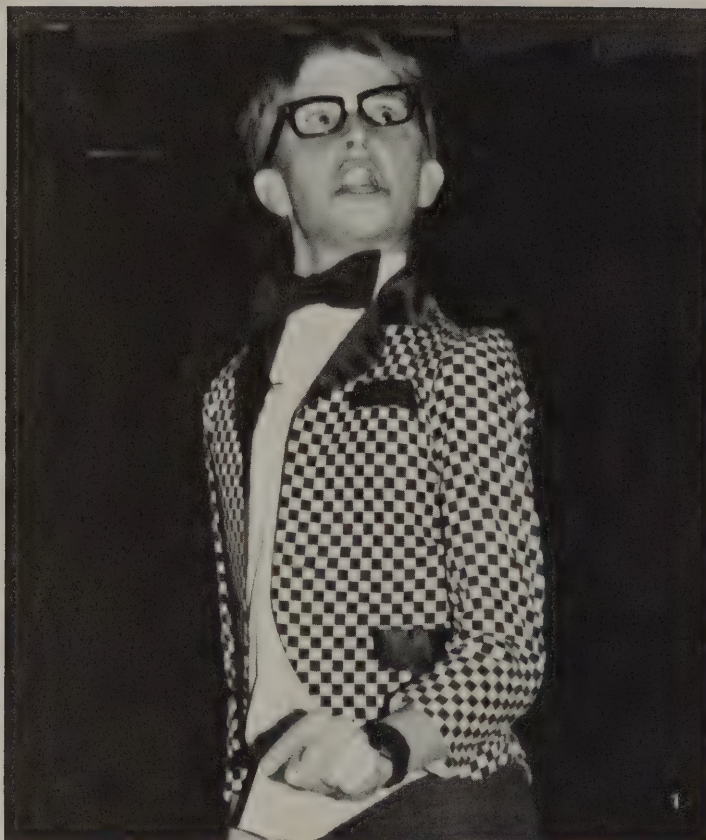

To Tell The Truth It Was Groovy

This year's Fall Production was a great success. Many people came to watch Suitable For Hanging the three nights it was performed. The stage crew did an excellent job of putting together the set. The cast did a very good job of performing the play and Mr. Dennis Hollenbeck directed the production.

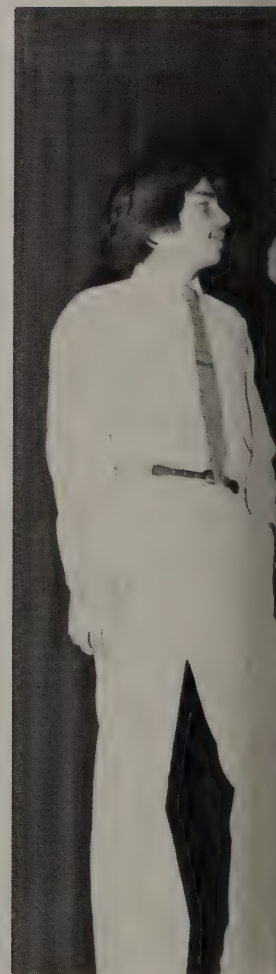

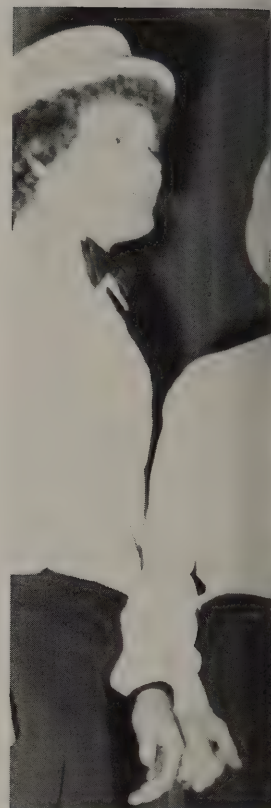

Suitable For Hanging takes place in Los Angeles in 1964. It is about a lab technician named Charlie Hackle (Tolly Long). He lives with his best friend Sam Adams (Todd Garrett) who is an advertising agent. Sam is throwing a bachelor party for Charlie because Charlie is getting married on Friday to Abby Raney (Denise Gomez). Before the party Dr. Zapotka and Prof. Gruber (Todd Parsons, Scott Angel), from Charlie's work, are at the apartment working on a secret formula called GE4250PQ2, which is supposed to make anyone that takes it tell the truth. They complete the formula and ask Charlie to celebrate with them. They put some of the formula into Charlie's cup, using him as a "gunea hog." That night Charlie is hypnotized by a foreign spy (Chris Byzewski) who is looking for the formula. Charlie sleeps through Friday and his wedding. On Saturday, Charlie and Sam find the spy asleep in their closet, but they think he is dead. Also two women are found in Charlie's room. One is a millionaire's daughter (Martina Livingston) who is thought to have been kidnapped. The other (Mia Vigil) is another spy. Charlie is being investigated for murder, and his case has been assigned to Abby's father (Matt Modlin). The play climaxes when everyone is in the apartment together. Abby and her mother (Kim Taitano) see the two women and are very upset. Dr. Zapotka and Prof. Gruber are checking to see how the formula is working on Charlie. Mini and Maxi (Noelle Beach, Bernie Alfrets), the clients of Sam Adams are crying about an audition that they blew. Charlie's mother tells everyone to calm down and offers them something to drink. She accidentally puts some of the formula in the drinks. Now everyone tells the truth and Charlie tells Abby what happened and they decide to still get married.

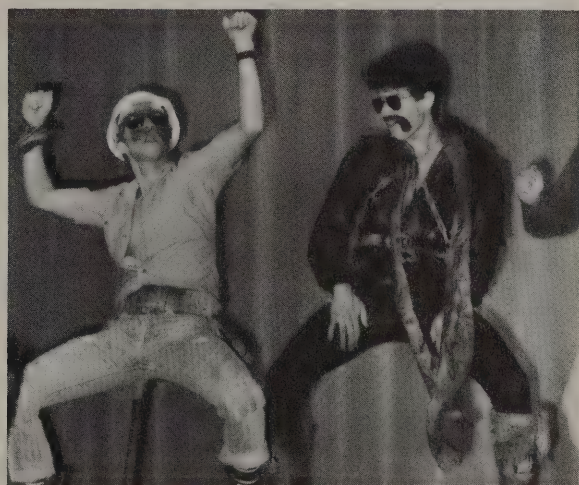

Just Showing Off

One of the more exciting events at Madison was this year's annual Talent show. The production, which was sponsored by the Drama Club, provided a diverse range of entertainment for all who attended. Singing, dancing, group skits and solo acts made up most of the repertoire, with singing and record pantomimes making up the majority of acts. Despite a sometimes rude audience, the acts were pulled off without any major problems, thanks to the services of the hardworking Stagecrew.

Two of the more outstanding acts included were a witty dialogue, "Lovers and other Strangers", by Tammy Brown and Tolly Long, and a moving love song, "Always and Forever", by Tony Graham. The Jazz Combo, which opened the show with "Giblets" provided consistent entertainment throughout the show. "The Village People Plus One" ended the show with a rowdy dance and pantomime number, wrapping up a very memorable 1983 Talent Show.

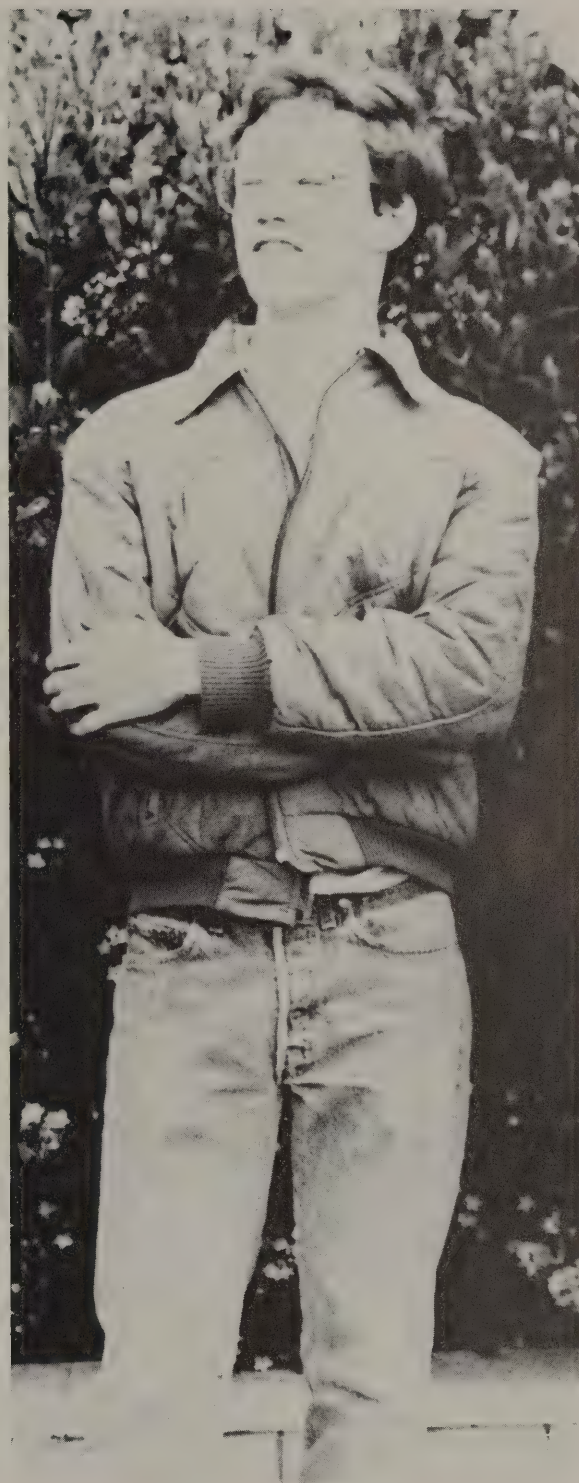

1. Roger Whitney makes a key point during his performance. 2. Madison's very own barber shop quartet demonstrates their ability to harmonize. 3. Singer Yvonne Cartwright gives a wonderful performance. 4. Enjoying themselves immensely, hosts Paul Frago and Ramon Gomez introduce the next act. 5. Two members of the popular Village People plus One, Eric Schaldach and Manny Anaya get down and boogie. 6. Seniors Tolly Long and Tammy Brown portray their feelings during a scene from their hilarious act. 7. Debbi Flecher displays her singing talent during the second half of the show.

Excellence Shines . . .

During their senior year, certain students are chosen to receive a Bank of America Achievement Award. This award is given to students who have shown outstanding achievement in a certain academic field. A nomination form is given to each of the department chairs, and each department chooses an outstanding student in that area. The different departments include Music, Art, Science, Mathematics, and Social Studies. The number of awards available depended upon the size of the school; this year our school was entitled to four plaque winners and twelve certificate winners, though all awards need not be granted. Certificate winners demonstrated excellence in a specific field, while plaque winners were chosen for a wider area such as Liberal Arts, Science and Math, and Fine Arts.

Our Year In Review

If the years we have spent dreaming away at school have been memorable, then the year 1982-1983 definitely is one of the most unforgettable. The events this past year did not flow quietly by us. Rather, they brought out the most heartfelt emotions within us. Whether it was the death of Henry Fonda, the birth of E.T., or the demise of the American economy, there is no doubt that at least one event this year affected us each in a personal way.

Nationally, the American economy was an issue that affected our lives constantly. President Reagan's budget for 1983 brought criticism, even among the most supportive of his followers. Certain prime issues that were reviewed in the new budget were: unemployment, military and defense spending, and the plight of social security. James Watt was another well known figure in politics. His comments regarding conservation and the American Indian brought criticism from many factions. Draft registration portestors received a victory this year when David Wayte of Pasadena took the government to court, and won. Wayte and his lawyer argued that it was unconstitutional for the Selective Service to indict only those young men who had publicly announced their decision not to register, as Wayte did.

On a more local level, the elections of the State Government brought in new faces as well as new ideas. Pete Wilson, former mayor of San Diego, is now a United States Senator. He won in the race against former governor Jerry Brown. In Brown's place is George Dukemejian, who took a surprise win over former mayor of Los Angeles, Tom Bradley. Economically, the state suffered one of the hardest years in its history. One of the changes which will most affect students is the current tuition hike at all of the California State Universities, including the once free Community Colleges.

Internationally, the events which have shaped this year have been diverse. In a full force onslaught to rid Lebanon of all

PLO supporters, Israel took part in one of the bloodiest battles in Lebanese History. The turmoil between Israel and the PLO raised questions throughout the world as to the role of Israel as an aggressive nation. Four new world leaders have taken office recently, including Gonzales of Spain, De la Madrid Hurtado of Mexico, Nakasone of Japan, and Kohl of West Germany. Soviet leader Brehznev's death made Yuri Andropov the new leader of the U.S.S.R. In the Falkland Islands, fighting was fierce between the British and the Argentinians. In Poland, after eleven months, Solidarity leader, Lech Walesa, was able to return home, but only after the Polish Government had made sure that the Solidarity Union was completely defunct.

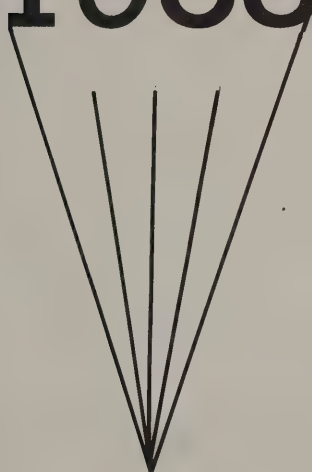

Within the cultural and scientific boundaries of the world, exciting and important events have occurred. Barney Clark became the first human ever to receive an artificial heart; perhaps truly altering the "meaning of life." E.T. blessed audiences with a very emotional visit from outer space before phoning home. He has perhaps gone down in history as one of the most memorable non-human movie stars. The Chargers didn't come close to playing in the Super Bowl, but the Redskins did, and won an exciting game against the Dolphins. TV audiences were awed by the fine interpretation and acting in Dickens' Nicholas Nickleby, which played for four nights around the country. New York audiences seemed quite willing to shell out $45.00 to see the "fantabulous" feline musical, Cats, which was based on the poetry of T.S. Eliot. Notable deaths this past year included Henry Fonda (Grapes of Wrath), Princess Grace of Monaco, authors Ayn Rand and John Cheever, actress Ingrid Bergman (Casablanca), and top Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev.

It has been a year of both transition and entrenchment. As Americans, we have been subject to a wide degree of change, both around and probably within us. There can be no doubt though, that this last year has made us all look up from what we have been doing long enough to experience these rousing movements throughout our world.

Heading in the Right Direction

The Associated Student Body is probably the most important organization on campus. Its purpose is to involve all students in support of school activities. The ASB manages the budget for all campus organizations. The ASB Council represents a cross section of the students. The members organize and sponsor pep rallies and dances and monitor the activities of all other clubs and organizations. President, Leonard Thompson, and his specially elected cabinet learned the leadership skills necessary to make the year's school activities run effectively. Mr. Wolfe was the advisor whose tasks were eased because of the smooth operation of the council.

This year the ASB initiated a new office. Roger Whitney was accepted to the office of Historian. His job was to assemble a scrapbook for all events held throughout the year. "Although most of the cabinet was new we all got along well and tried our best to make this year successful," commented Hildy Schell, Commissioner of Race/Human Relations. It was a long year and they reached all the goals that they had set. Their efforts proved them to be a great cabinet and set the school year off with a "boom."

Its A Jungle Out There . . .

And this year's Prospectus staff began its Safari in an attempt to capture the best times of the 1982-83 school year.

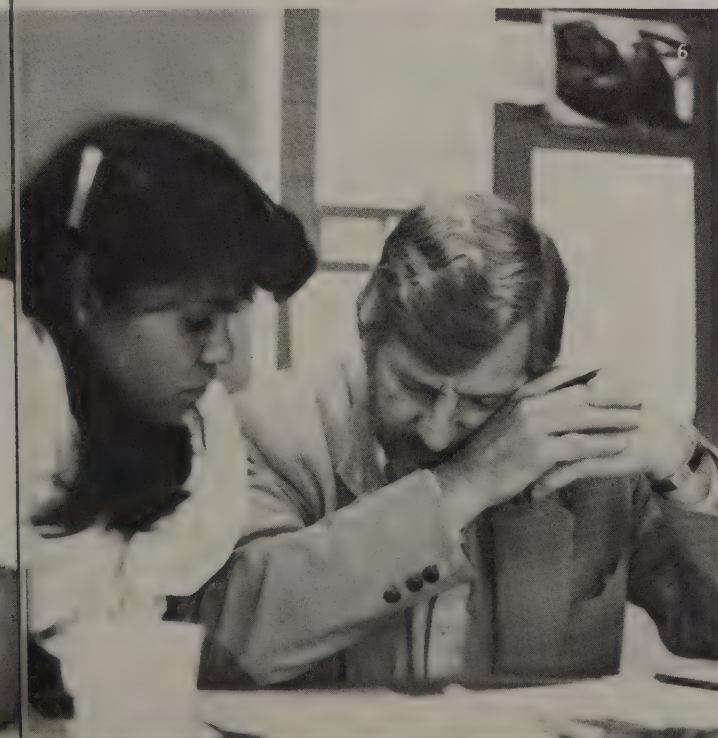

A select group of twenty-three, nine returning members, and fourteen rookies, led by Captain, Melani LaPier and White Hunter, Bill Penn, made up the dedicated group preparing for the hunt. They met every day during fifth period. Assignments were made, deadlines were stalked, and they gather for an occasional potluck. "It's the best extracurricular activity to participate in because it benefits your future," said Ed Olsen, who is serving his second year as head photographer. The students who were chosen to track down this year's history applied last spring, and were hand picked by the preceeding staff. "You learn a lot about writing skills and photography skills" commented Tara Kuglen. "It's a challenging experience and you have to cooperate and get along," said Sandy Smith.

Ed Olsen said. "There is nothing better than working hard all year and then seeing the finished product." Trapping a whole year of school activities is a difficult job, but the editor, Melani LaPier said "Seeing the finished book brings self-satisfaction and a feeling of accomplishment."

Talon Gets A Grip On The News

The Talon, Madison's school newspaper, is put out every three weeks by a group of very hard working students; reporters and photographers. The requirements to become a Talon Staff member include, completion, with good grades, of a one year class of journalism or advanced English.

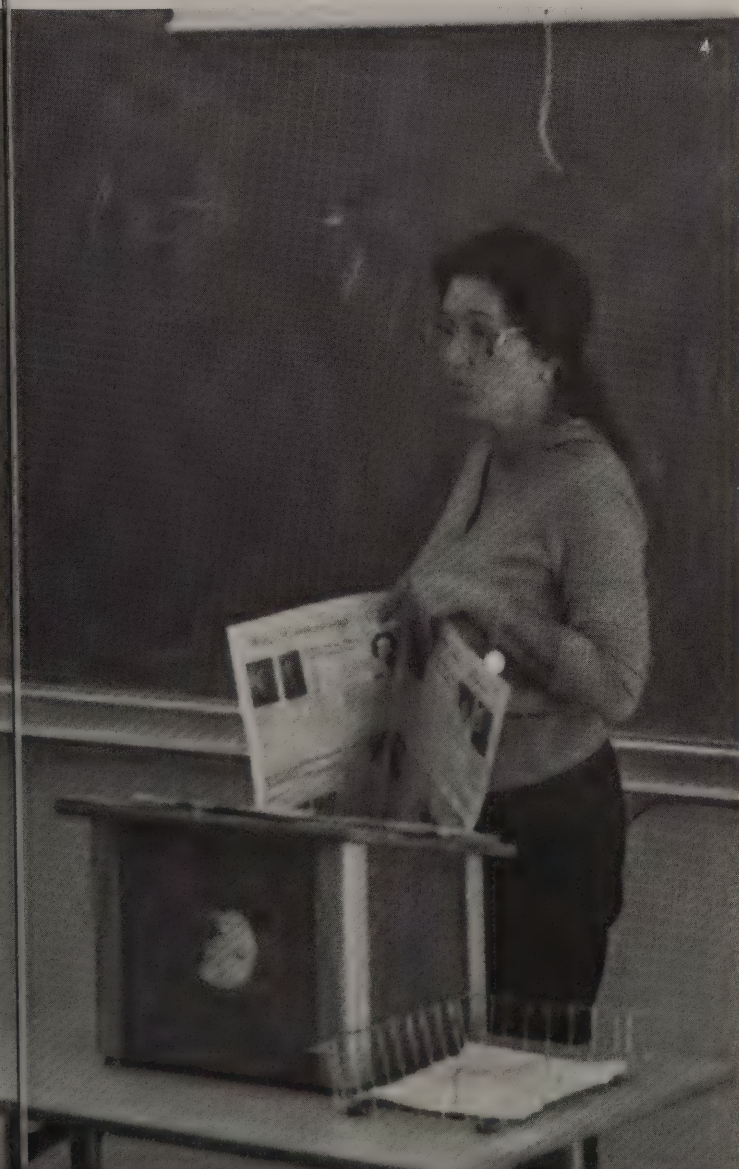

The class is unique in that there are only a few students. They usually work alone, unless they need help, then they go to their editor in chief, Julia Stevenson, or advisor, Mrs. Barnard.

Julia Stevenson stated, "We have a hard time meeting our deadlines, but we get it out okay!" Though there may be occasional mistakes, when the Talon is finished, it tries to be as interesting as Madison.

Advising a newspaper staff isn't easy. "I enjoy it because it is a service to the school and students. It also gives them a chance to find out what is going on around the school, but it is a hard class," commented Mrs. Barnard, the new Talon Staff advisor.

Mrs. Barnard has been working at Madison for about 12 years, but this is her first time, here, to be a class instructor. Professionally, that is what she is supposed to be, but for the past 12 years she has been supervising in the Tutorial Center and has been a member of the Human Race Relations Committee. This year she taught the journalism classes, Contemporary Voices, and of course, was the advisor of the Talon Staff.

Let The Spirit Soar

One word that best describes this year's varsity cheerleaders is "potential." This one word was how they described their own squad when asked at their cheerleading camp held on the UCLA campus. There they received the over-all spirit award; voted to them by 85% of the other squads. "We were all so happy, we jumped up, screamed and hugged each other. Some of us even started crying," commented Cheri Shaffer.

The squad consisted of eleven girls, nine of which were seniors and the other two, juniors. All six of this year's male cheerleaders were seniors. Although the year started off a little shakey for the cheerleaders, their enthusiasm never halted. They cheered the football team through a victorious season and kept the spirit up during basketball, pep rallies, and the remainder of the 1983 school year.

Little Sisters Have A Big Price

"From camp to now we've learned a lot together," commented head cheerleader, Kim Cheadle. All eight girls on the JV Cheerleading squad attended a summer cheerleading camp at SDSU. The squad consisted of two sophomores and six juniors. When Michelle Burner was asked why she tried out, she said, "I really wanted to get involved with school and I figured this was the best way."

The girls cheered for all the J.V. football games and J.V. basketball games, and helped whip up enthusiasm for other social school events. They helped the Varsity Cheerleaders with fund raisers, and they attended all the varsity games to help keep the spirit high. Lisa Tupper commented, "We've been through a lot together this past year and I've made a lot of new friends. I've always wanted to cheerlead and I'm really glad I had a chance to do it."

Warhawks Don't Take No "Ugh" Jive

The Pep Club was a group of students who had complete enthusiasm for their school. They got together every Friday night and sat in their special section in the stands, and kept the spirit high the entire game. They started up cheers and kept cheers going. They helped the rest of the fans keep their pride up even when the hawks were not doing so well. But the crowds stayed loud and the hawks were led to continuous victories. Their enthusiasm was greatly appreciated by the fans and the athletes alike.

Big Blue Music Crew

The Madison High Marching Band started practicing two weeks before school started and made their first performance the Friday before Classes resumed. The Band practiced during second lunch and after school and did six parades and five field events (like Halftime at Football games, and Pep Rallies) a season. In parades the Band competed in a division for High school Bands.

The Marching Band had one hundred fifteen members in it, including the Auxiliaries. The Band was one of the largest organizations on campus. As Mr. Hickman said, "I think the Band's potential looks good this year. We had a lot of good veterans return and new people who want to work."

Many of the Band's parents performed last minute shoe shines and supplied water to the members before and after parades.

All That Glitters Is Drill Team

Drill Team this year received their long awaited new uniforms. The uniforms were more glamorous looking this year with the addition of glitter on the collar and hem. They also got new hats. With their new uniforms came new routines and new rookies, who were very willing to learn. This year the Drill Team is going to go to Denver, Colorado for their spring trip, to compete in Drill Team Competition. What makes them good though, according to junior Jennifer Lemasters is: "We perform as a unit, not separately."

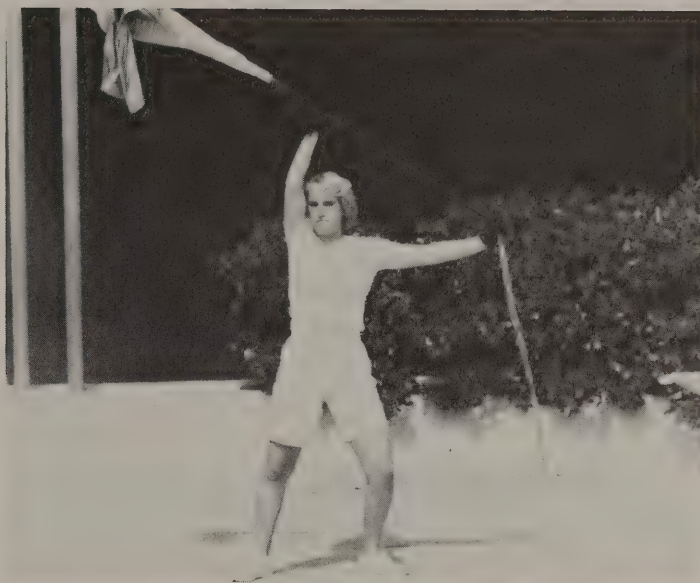

1. The drill team stands in a precise line while marching at a parade. 2. Lori Moshier and Jennifer Lemasters nervously smile before their performance. 3. Front Row: S. King, C. Tryon, V. Tall Flags Get Shorter

Every year seems better to the participants in any sport or activity, but to the members of Tall Flags, this year meant better equipment. The flags were replaced by shorter six-foot flags. They were also lighter with new silks that were silver. As a group they were also better. According to senior, Irene Lavergne, "the routines are better, the flags are lighter, the people are more willing to work, and are more willing to work as a unit to accomplish a goal together."

ROTC Trains Future Leaders

ROTC, was made up of males and females who take the class as a Pre-military skills experience. The class had a lot of advantages. It helped to teach the students to have more confidence, learn leadership skills, taught students how to work with first aid, basic military marching movements, and pride. John Bumm, a Cadet Second Lieutenant, said, "I feel it could be educational. It teaches people how to serve in today's world." In order to be ranked, first they had to be recommended by their leader and then they went up for a promotion board. Oral, written and drill tests were required. Then they were scored by the leader.

ROTC had six people who were called the Battalion Staff.

The highest in command was Cadet Captain Kristy Dahar. The other five were: Cadet First-Lieutenant Jon Akin, Cadet Second-Lieutenant John Bumm, Cadet Master Sergeant Chris Hubbard and Cadet Sergeant Major Glynis Perkins. Cadet Captain Kristy Dahar said, "We are a team. I never thought I could accomplish what I did." The Drill team, drilled with Springfield M-1903 rifles. They provided the Color Guard for PTA meetings and open house. The Drum Corps used snare, tenor, bass and symbols. Rifle team uses 22 Caliber weapons on a 50 foot range. Throughout the school year, ROTC competed in each activity. They competed against San Diego High School, Hoover, Lincoln, Kearny, and Morse.

That Big Band Sound...

With the Big Band sound reverberating at high volume through the doors of the band room, the Jazz Band put in another successful season this year. The Jazz Band was sponsored by Mr. Hickman, and took part in various competitions, such as the World of Music Festival in San Jose, and the Saddleback College competition, where they placed third.

The Jazz Band played mostly Big Band, Swing, and Blues music, and stayed away from the more modern fusion type jazz. Anyone who has heard the Jazz Band play would have no doubt as to the dedication not only to the music, but to the organization in which they played.

1. Dan Medico, Brett Sanders, Eric Lytle, and Noriko Hasegawa participate in an energetic practice session. 2. G. Olpin, A. Marxer, P. Holtz, D. Medico, M. Schuler, S. Fleury, B. Beaumon, J. Arcediano, T. Farrow, M. Bradbury, R. Weinmeister, M. Ishihara, D. Dimascio, R. Cassity, N. Hasegawa, S. Kim, M. McCloskey, E. Lytle, M. Sweet, B. Sanders. 3. During a morning practice, the Jazz Band blasts through another number.

A Certain Pep...

Made up of about thirty fun-loving students, the Pep Band was an organization which definitely added a lot of spirit to this past year. The band, which was sponsored by Mr. Hickman, took part in school rallies and games, and also occasionally did outside gigs.

As senior, Betsy Beaumon, remarked, "The Pep Band is a great opportunity for us to get out and play well while having an enjoyable time doing it." This year's Pep Band best represented the type of student organization which generates a high level of enthusiasm while doing a quality job.

Hitting The High Notes

The Treble Chorale is a group of girls who perform not only for Madison, but for quite a number of other schools and organizations. They compete with other schools and they do concerts. Last year they went on a trip to San Francisco. This year however they were unable to go because of financial difficulty.

Their pianist, Betty Kiaser, is a real asset to the girls. She goes with them wherever they go. She has been playing with them for two years. When asked why she does it, she commented, "I love it. The girls are great." When asked why the girls themselves tried out they said, "Its fun. Its a real challenge. We love performing." These answers show the enthusiasm the girls have toward their talent.

The Treble Chorale was started about five years ago by Mr. Sloan. The class however was much larger than the class now. Back then there were anywhere from twenty-five to thirty-five people, where now there are only twelve. The girls worked very hard every day at fifth period under the direction of Mr. Sloan. The girls first did a number of throat exercises to warm up and then they practiced singing the various routines they would perform throughout the year. Rhonda Durham said, "Its pretty hard work but is worth it in the end."

Dean Hickman raises the pitch of the instruments, while directing the band.

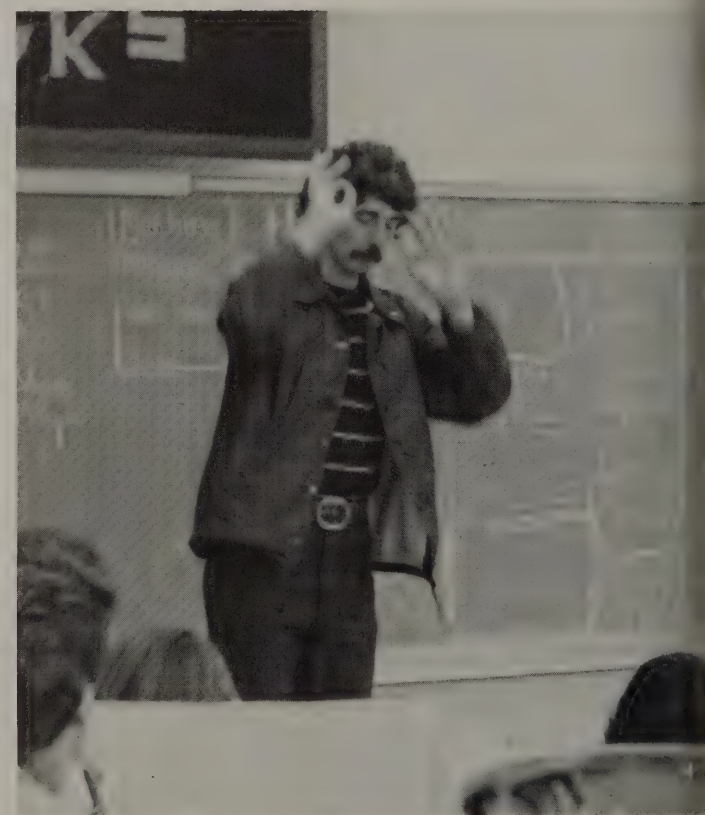

"I enjoy my work here very much, and would rather teach here than any other school," commented Dean Hickman, the director of the Concert Band.

The Concert Band, this year, consisted of over seventy people, and was formed into two groups. The first, and more advanced was Wind Ensemble.

The other group was the regular Concert Band. They sometimes practiced together, performed together, and they took part in competition together.

When the Wind Ensemble performed, there was only one performer for each instrument. This meant that without backup instruments for each part, each Ensemble member had to play his best.

Through the year the Concert Band had fund raisers to raise money for tours. This year, they worked and practiced hard aiming at a chance for competition in San Jose. For the past three years, the Concert Band was consistently rated superior.

The story for this year's golf team started many months before the season began. It started with the Board of Education cutting golf to save money. Players, parents and coaches urged the Board to reinstate the program. The Board then agreed to allow golf to be played but still would not fund it. Approximately 10,000 dollars was needed. A large amount was supplied by the Century Club, a charitable organization for amateur golf. The rest was supplied by the players.

Fred Brown, the team's usual coach was unable to coach this year because of a mixup in his teaching schedule. The new coach was Jan Hethcock. He and the boys got used to each other very quickly and they had a great season.

The players had to practice many long hours, including tough mental preparation. As Bruce Adams told us, "Preparing yourself mentally is the most important part of the game. That is what separates the good and the great." Because of their hard work the team had a very successful season. They won their first two matches and continued to win many more. And so the story comes to an end. Although greatly condensed, it was quite a story.

Deaf Students

Now Here

The Deaf Program is a very special program designed for the hearing handicapped students. Ms. Sevick, the organizer of the program, said, "The program is very successful because the kids can get more involved with school activities." Thanks to the program, the students could also become involved in the many sports we have here at Madison. With the help of an interpreter the students can join any activities they wish. Before, hearing handicapped students could not join school activities.

The classes for the program are structured so that instead of being offered in individual classrooms, five or six bungalows are connected. This makes it easier for the students. In these connected classrooms, the students take all the basic course such as math, English and history. The students then may take elective classes on their own with the help of an interpreter. One of the teachers, Ken Schwartz, is deaf himself, and is a real inspiration to the students. The program not only helps the students learn, but sometimes, after training in the program, the students can stay in regular classrooms for all their elective and the basic courses. The program is going to be a permanent part of Madison's curriculum, and the hearing handicapped students will continue to be involved in our school's activities.

Snow Bound!

The ski club was a new thing here at Madison. The group was brought about by the students and was advised by Tom Hetherington. The basic reason for the club was to have good clean fun! The year started out with a trip to Brianhead, Utah. President of the club, Sean Rogers said, "It went better than we had planned. It was a lot of fun!" The next trip they planned was for Mammoth. Anyone could join the club and whether they knew how to ski or not the trips were always a lot of fun. This was the first time Madison tried the club and because of popular demand the club will continue next year. This year it was a trial type of thing and there will be a lot more ski trips planned for next year. When asked what she thought about the ski club continuing next year, junior Sina Giacoloni said, "I can't wait for next year, it's going to be lots of fun."

"Break A Leg"

This club is a support group for all the Drama production and activities. The Drama Club works very hard and puts much time and effort into fund raisers so that the Drama productions are made possible. The Drama Club meets every Wednesday after school at two o'clock.

This club goes to many functions outside of school, such as ushering for outside school productions, doing scenes for local Jr. High Schools, and after school trips to the community theater. They also usher for our school productions.

The president of the Drama Club this year was Jenny Lewis a senior at Madison High School. The vice President is Cort Huchabone, a sophomore. Their job is to direct activities and fund raisers. The Drama Club also goes to other schools productions and professional productions just to support Drama.

The key to the Drama Club is people getting together to support Drama and its functions.

1. Doug Barton studies a script, for the next Madison production "Picnic". 2. Front Row: J. Lewis, D. Hollenbeck, C. Huckabone. Second Row: A. Perry, I. Honda, K. Binks, S. Baer, K. Wells, F. Behind The Scenes

The Stage Craft is a class that only consists of juniors and seniors. This class is a special school service which the students consider an honor. The students are hand picked. There are twenty three people in the program.

Many of the projects consist of working together as a group on the scenery you see when the curtain opens in a drama production. The Stage Craft people consider this a serious job. Not only do they have to think of the final result of the scenery, but also about the building of the sets. This is so important; utilizing lighting equipment and much more.

Being in Stage Craft is a very demanding and difficult job, but the least recognized. "They only notice when you make a mistake," said, Dennis Hollenbeck.

Ready . . . Action!

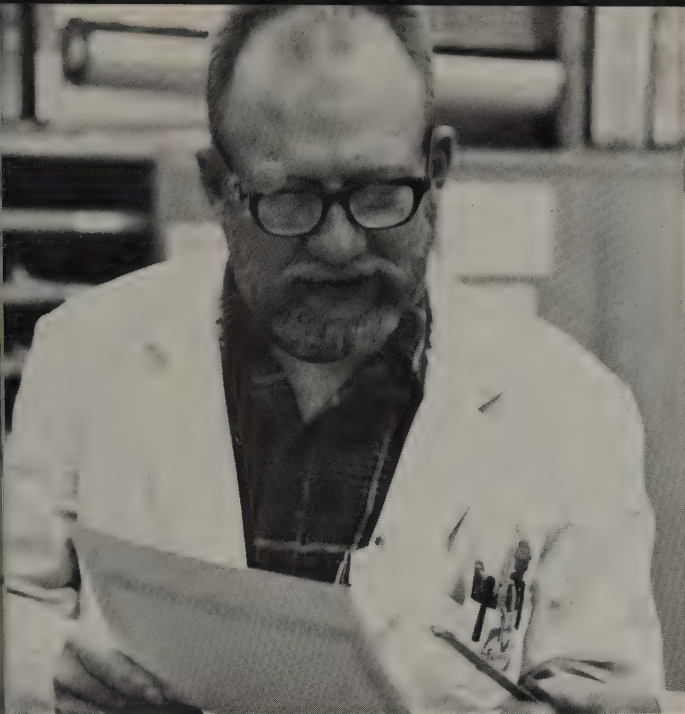

Ready . . . Action! The set quiets down, the control room signals for production to start, and the camera starts rolling. These are just some of the activities CCTV did. CCTV stands for Closed Circuit Television. It was primarily a news program for Madison's staff and students. When CCTV wasn't a news team, it was a class. The students in CCTV learned not only about production itself, but also about script writing, directing, camera operating, set design, and graphics. The students also had special five minute productions they created themselves every semester.

The students enjoyed their class. As junior Mike Burner said, "It's fun, and a great experience!" There was no doubt that the CCTV students had learned to do their job well, but none of it could have been done without the good team work each member contributed.

1. Mike Burner gathers his equipment as he goes out on remotes. 2. Mr. Nelson keeps the class working. 3. Fred Webb waits patiently for production to start. 4. Scott Croteau makes sure everything is right for his five minute production. 5. Byron Pamplin, feverishly at work. 6. Tom Wagner, Scott Angel, and Brian Ket-chum try new ways of silkscreening. 7. Scott Croteau and Yolanda Provencio go over their lines before shooting starts. 8. Steve Robinson shows his skill at silkscreening.

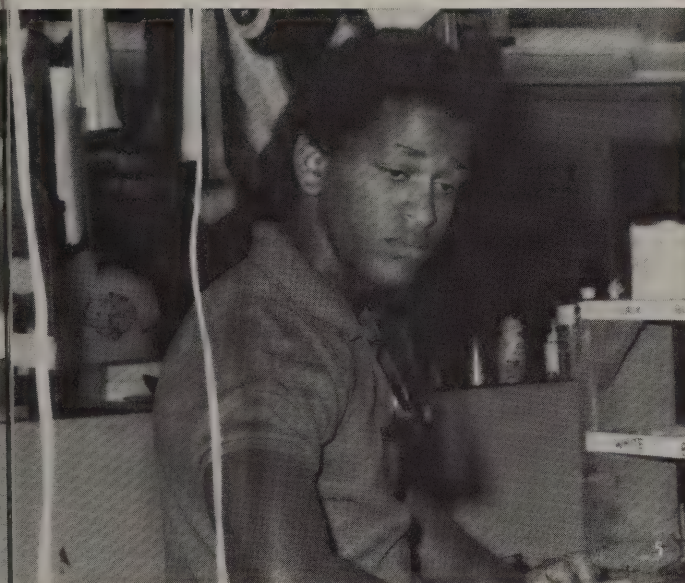

Creativity Turned Into Productivity

Madison's Occupational Arts class, or Madigraphs, is by far the most productive class on campus. They do offset printing and silkscreening. "They're super creative!" says teacher Mr. Garold Nelson. Their super creativity shows in the printing they do for ASB and the school. There is personal printing as well. There are three students printing a pilot's log book.

A lot of their printing helps raise funds to buy additional equipment. They raise money from printing pep ribbons for the cheerleaders. Also, some of the alumni manage to help supply materials. They always make money when the materials they print are used for something. So, Madigraph's print for fun, but they also make a small profit.

Understanding Other Nations

Model United Nations was one of the many organizations here at Madison. The group met after school to discuss world problems and share their opinions on the subject. Under the leadership of advisor, Larry Sutton, and Model U.N. president, Agnes Thompson, the club members divided into several groups that represented different countries and debated current event topics from their country's point of view.

This year Model U.N. consisted of fourteen members who were all interested in world affairs. During the school year, Model United Nations debated at U.C.S.D. and S.D.S.U. against various high schools from throughout California. They also debated at different San Diego High Schools.

Foreign Experience

AFS, American Field Service, became active again at Madison this year. The club was advised by Ms. Bates and consisted of about fifteen students interested in studying abroad in a foreign land or hosting a foreign student in their own homes.

The students are chosen to study abroad for six months to a year. Being selected is a process of elimination. It involved many interviews with teachers here at Madison and other teachers from the district, plus a final interview with AFS officials in New York. Students were asked to write about themselves and their interests and were asked how they would handle certain situations away from home.

AFS is a great opportunity to become acquainted with a foreign family. It's an experience that these students will never forget.

1. Pat Trepanier is one of the many students being sent overseas to study abroad. 2. Corey Nettles and Noelle Beach chat about the exciting challenge of living away for a year. 3. Dean Hervey relaxes with a smile during an AFS meeting. 4. Keeping her eye on the speaker, Alexandra Epibane takes mental notes.

Breaking Down The Barriers

Madison has wanted to break down the barriers between social and racial groups in the school. Their answer to this problem is the Race Human Relations Committee.

All year, meetings were held where students tried to accomplish goals that would help break down these barriers. This year, as last, Hildy Schell was the commissioner of Race Human Relations. She was involved with this committee because,

"I feel it plays a vital part in order for anything to be accomplished." What did they want to be accomplished this year? Well first, the students wanted the teachers to get more involved with the students and activities inside and out of the classroom. Second, they wanted to have a friendlier atmosphere on campus, and third, to break down the stereotypes of different social and racial groups. Most importantly they wanted to bring more students out and get them involved with school activities. This year they were aiming toward getting the sophomores more involved.

This year Mrs. Miller was advisor to Race Human Relations. Besides advising the students, Mrs. Miller also worked with the faculty in helping the students make Race Human Relations work.

1. Hildy Schell just relaxes and enjoys the atmosphere. 2. Tito Arenas tries to make a point to Casey Oneill as Roger Whitney looks on. 3. Kenny Guidry takes a moment to organize his thoughts.

The Understanding Of A Language

The English as a Second Language Program at Madison this year dropped considerably. Going from five teachers to two. The school district decided they needed other ESL centers because only a few schools contained the program. The two teachers at Madison this year were Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Faklis. The program consisted of classes in English at three levels. Each class was two hours, with a break in between. The students were taught understanding, speaking, reading, and writing English. The classes also helped the students with social behavior. An Ngo said, "The hardest thing to learn was how to introduce myself." The class was a required course to all who needed English as a second language, until a test could be passed. The teachers have a certain order to go by when teaching. They are also not required to speak any of the particular languages of the students. "We very seldom translate," stated Mrs. Perkins. Many of the students came to America alone and left their families behind. It is here that they must learn a new language and new customs. As Chiew On said, "The most important thing is, to be friendly with each other and to be able to get along."

1. Chuong Bui listens to a lesson being taught on grammar. 2. Mrs. Perkins instructs her students on the use of contractions. 3. Tony Lu takes a brief break from her studies.

Planning For The Future

The Regional Occupational Program (ROP) is a countywide public education service which provides job training and career counseling for residents of San Diego County. Students, adults and the handicapped have a selection of 160 courses at other schools. This year, Madison has 204 students enrolled in ROP classes.

Here at Madison, two classes are provided; Floral Design and Child Development. Floral Design, taught by Mrs. Butz, makes center pieces, Madison's Prom corsages, decorations for weddings and many other projects. Each year the Floral Design classes hold bazaars where they display and sell their creations, and have the pleasure of showing their workmanship to other students. Grace Padilla said, "Floral Design is a good learning experience, and it's fun to learn different methods." Kevin Dahar said, "It's an advantage for when I grow older. My mom has a flower shop, so I can help her out."

Mrs. Hillman is the teacher of Child Development. She shows students how to work with babies and young children. The class teaches how to work with pre-school children and how to become pre-school teachers. Carol Dobbins said, "It's a great class. Every girl is going to be a mother, and it's good experience." After completing an ROP class, each student receives a license or a certificate.

Mr. Wilson is Madison's career Counselor. He helps students get a job and is in charge of work permits. Ms. Williams works with a variety of students on our campus. She assists students with ROP, college admission, scholarships, and obtains speakers from a variety of areas through out the community. The career center also is an excellent place to research methods of getting a job and planning for your career.

1. Stuart Jurist, a student of an ROP class at Kearny High School, works on a car in the auto center. 2. Mr. Wilson, Madison's career counselor, stands attentively at his desk.

1. Marjorie Burton of Madison's Child Development class assists a child through an important part of growing up. 2. Mrs. Williams directs career development here at Madison. 3. Charlotte Neilson constructs a silk flower arrangement in her Floral Design Class.

The Romads Latin Scholars

Mr. Robinson first sponsored the Latin Club back in 1966. Mr. Robinson said, "Another stimulating year which gave a renewed interest among the students in their Roman heritage." The Latin Club meets on regular class time each day. The club is called "The Romans." Ruth Walker, is the clubs president, she takes care of business. Ruth said, "You can figure out a lot of English words just by knowing Latin."

Latin, helps you understand the English vocabulary. The class learns history, poems, mythology, and old literature. Much of the English language comes from the Latin vocabulary. So, knowing Latin helps students. At the end of the school year all the members of the Latin Club gets together for a pot luck banquet. They bring Roman dishes like globi, fruit nectors, meats and other little goodies. They also dress up like the Roman people.

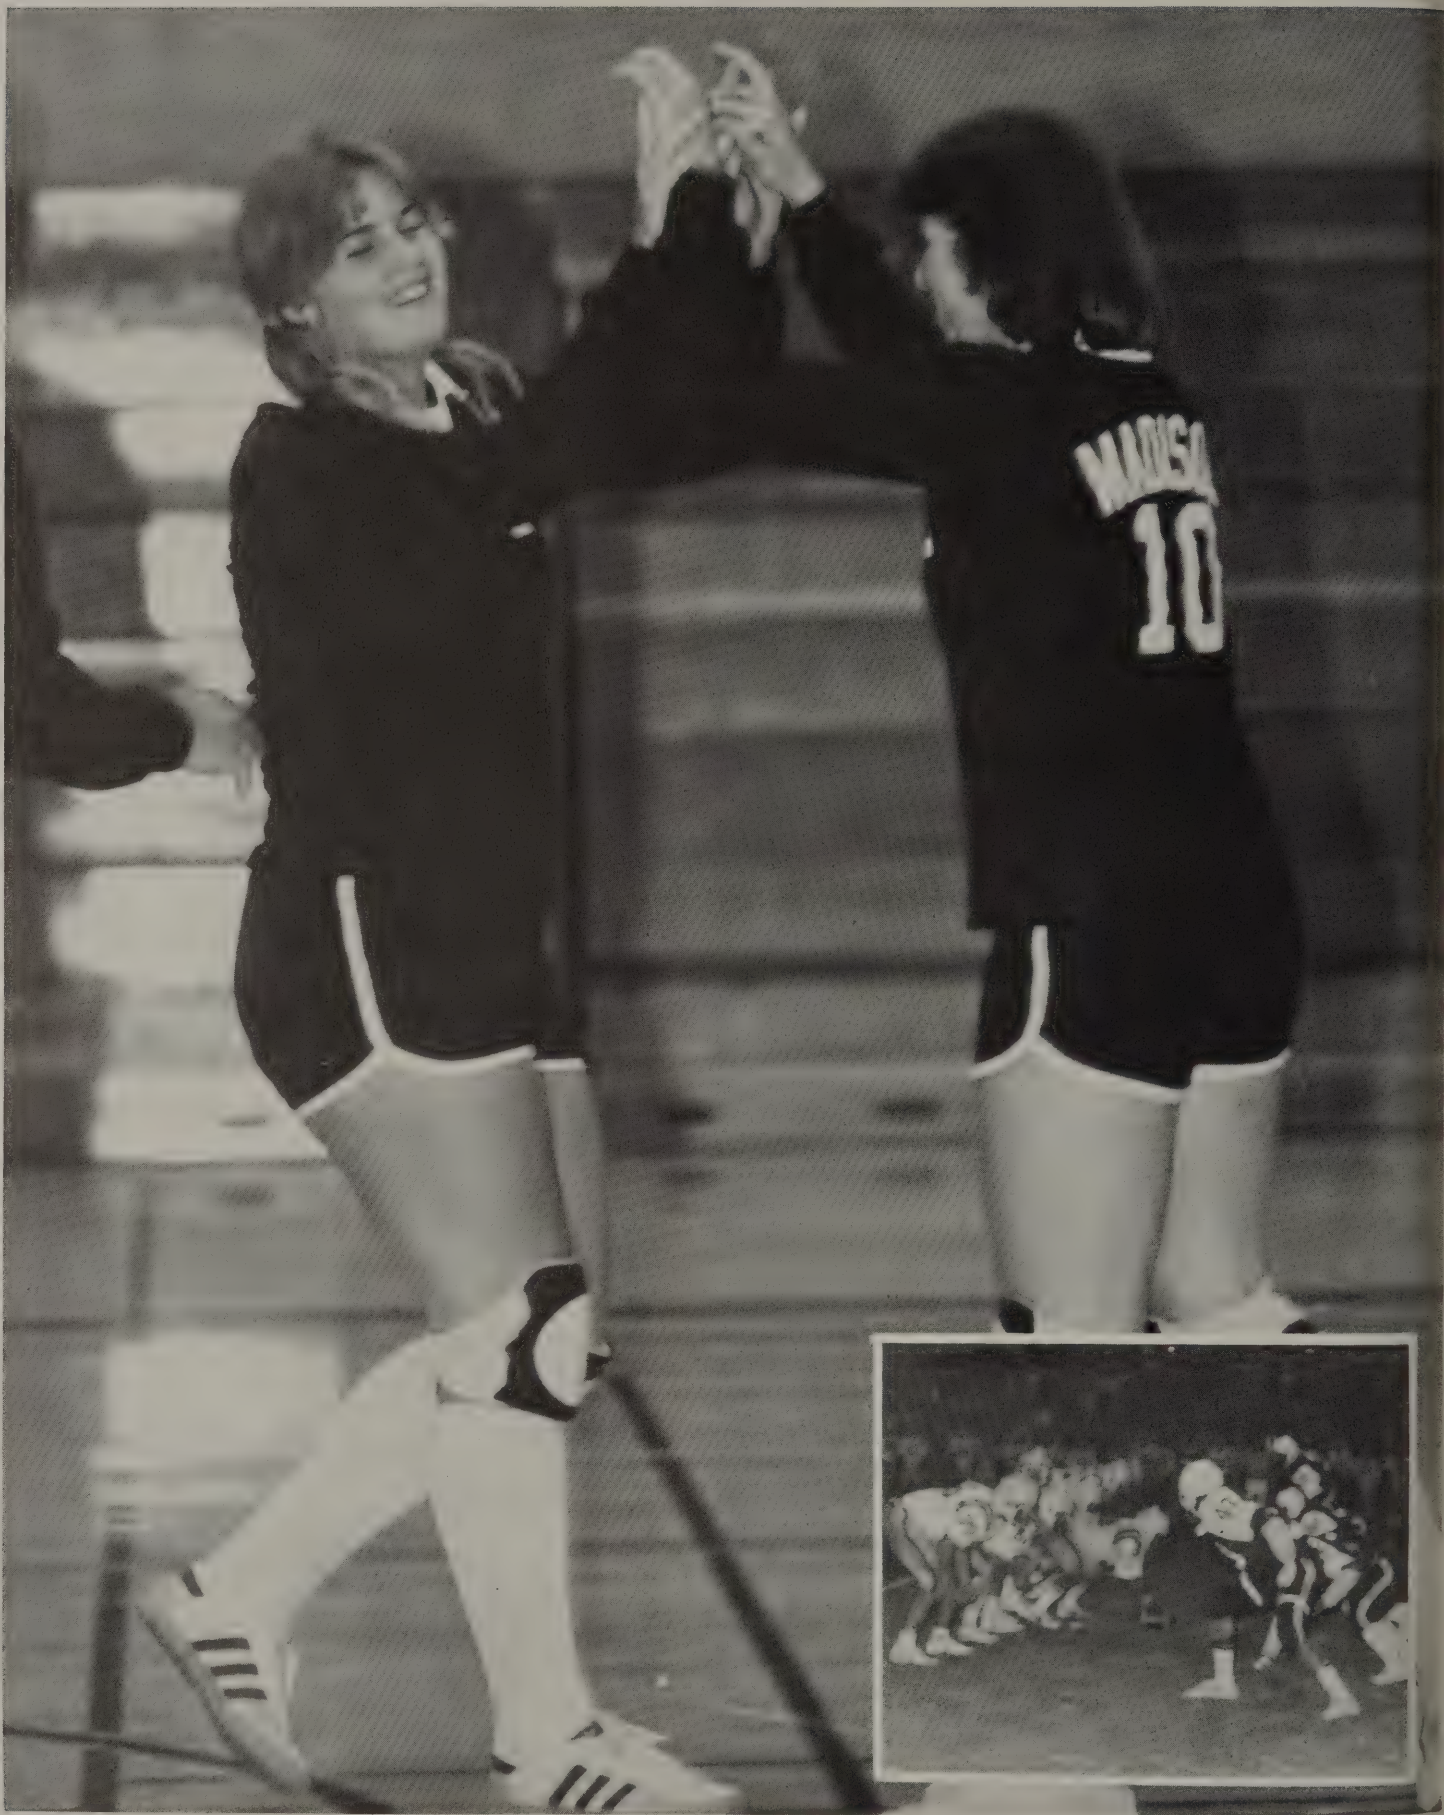

Speech Speakers

Mr. Steimetz, has taught Speech Club nineteen years. He said the students this year are harder workers, more self motivated and are working harder for their individual goals than students in recent years. The club this year has 25 members. They meet for 45 minutes afterschool a week before a competition. Developing speech skills, helps students toward their goals, self improvement, increased confidence, and interaction with others. Many feel the experience of speaking in front of an audience is important in almost any career.

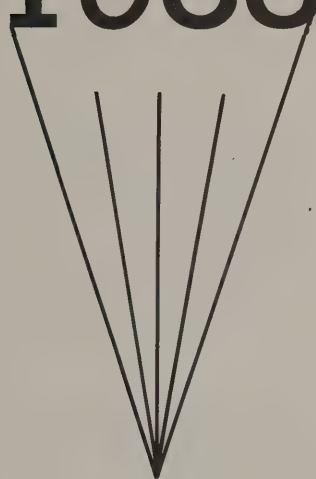

Mark Ishihara and Ray Flournoy are the club leaders. They work at getting other students ready for speech competitions. Mark Ishihara said "I speak for the school. I represent Madison. In any profession your going to have to communicate with other people. Our first format we went to, helped us out. The judges told us how everything was to be run and what was expected of us." The speech club has competitions several times a month, October through May. The speakers compete in current events, original speeches, and oral interpretation. The members of the club compete against each other before they have a competition with other schools. Each student is judged on delivery, interpretation and overall performance.

SPORTS

Stairway To Victory

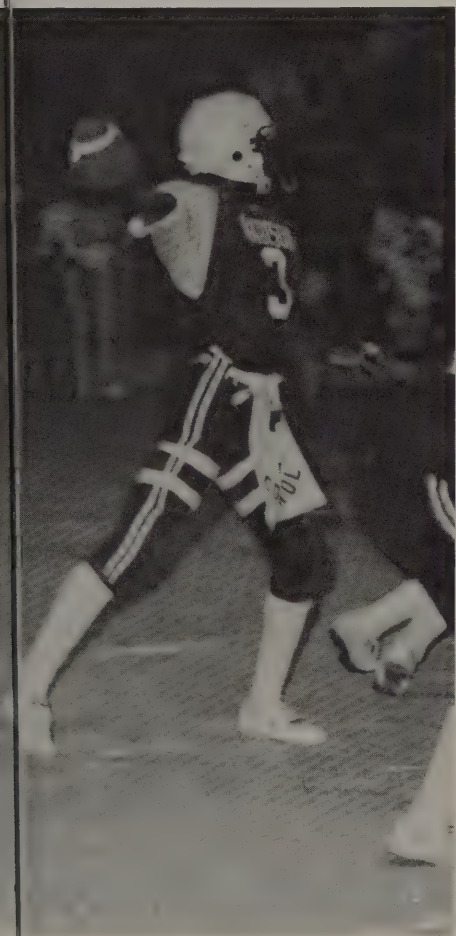

It's all about the Madhouse right? Right! This year's team was madder than ever. "They played together. The players were closer this year. There was not as much friction," commented Shannon Hinkle. Their aggressiveness and strength as a team got them one of the best records of the Eastern League.

"They came a long way."

These big guys of the Blue and Grey this year started meeting in the middle of summer, when they realized that the only returning starter from last year on the offense was Reggie Farmer. They also found out that the majority of the offensive line would be juniors. Though Madison teams have had a reputation of having the biggest and best offensive lines in the past years, they had their doubts about this year's team. Naturally the Madison Warhawks came around and took their season with no sweat, with a lot of help from sophomore quarterback Marty Lewis and receiver Reggie Farmer. This combination was a tough one.

1. Madison's goal line defense, set and ready to stop the Saint's offensive charge. 2. Greg Stewart out maneuvers a Mira Mesa player to gain much needed yardage. 3. Marty Lewis shows his passing ability in a game against Mira Mesa. 4. Marty Lewis calls the next offensive play. 5. Max Wright, Andre Kirk, and Andre Hart take a break, and find time to look at the camera.

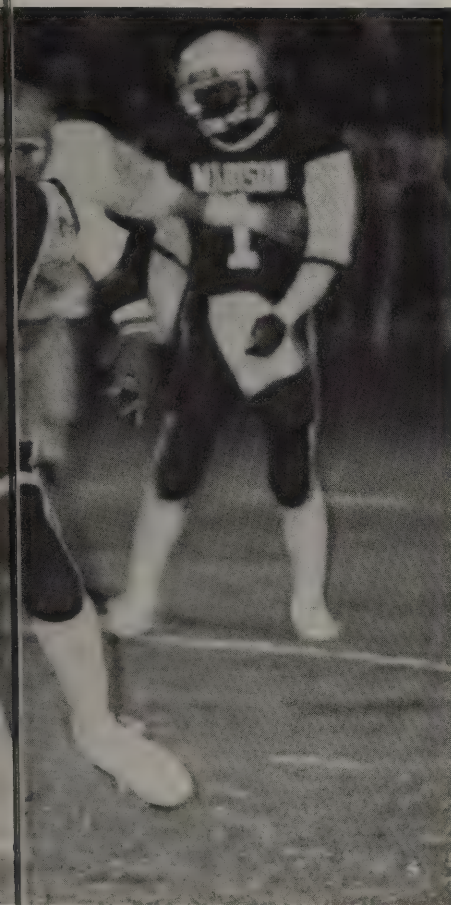

Marty Lewis, the only sophomore on the offensive line, did really well this year. "He is the best quarterback we've had in a long time," commented Coach Bishop. Reggie Farmer also played a big part on the offense. The San Diego Union said he was the best receiver in the county.

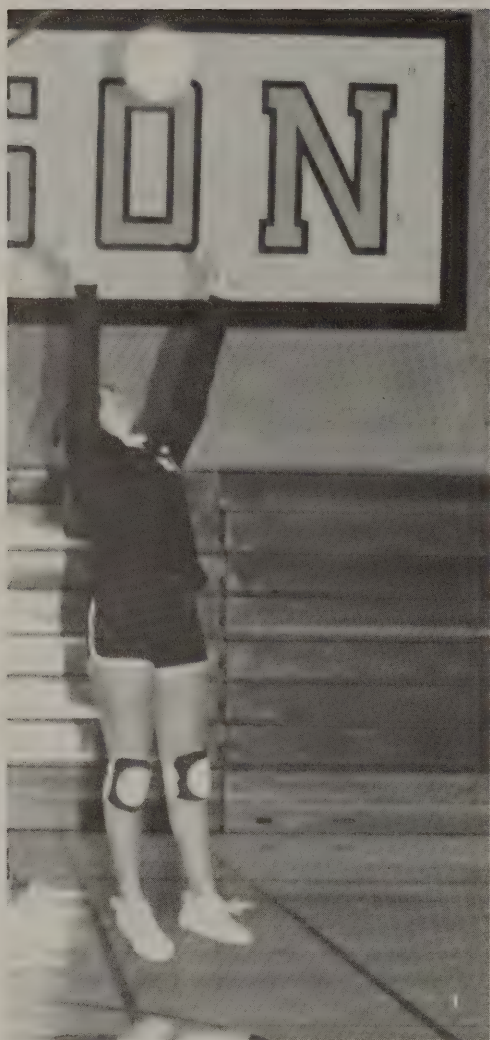

The coaches had a lot to do with the success of the offense. "They were very young and inexperienced, but they came a long way," commented Coach Bishop.

The defense this year was the best they have had in years. It was led by Charles Wiley, Mike Aitch, Joey Taylor, Reggie Farmer, Bryan Clark, Otha Jackson, Darryl Southerland, Darryl Rutland, Ron Taylor and Mike Young. Otherwise known on the football field as the Bodysnatchers. "We had the speed to run outside every defense and Mike Aitch to run up the middle for short yardage," commented Bryan Clark. "We also had a strong kicking game led by Shawn Foster," said Bryan.

With such a hot team, it is fairly obvious that we would have some major college prospects. Four of them have had many offers from different colleges. They are: Mike Aitch, Reggie Farmer, Greg Steward and Charles Wiley. We also had a lot of juniors and sophomores that have the potential to become college prospects. We wish them the best of luck.

Seaman's Spikers

There is one word that describes Madison Varsity Volleyball. It is awesome. Carrying eleven super athletes this season, Coach Seaman had complete confidence in each player. Said Kristie Skoglund, "We've all played together before in different sports, so we're used to each others' habits." Kelly Smith described the team as "friendly and fun. We all get along well and we respect each other."

"When we stop talking,
the team falls apart."

Coach Seaman stressed that, "It is so important to communicate in volleyball. One girl can't do it alone. It's a team sport that must be played as a unit." Trisha Mang added, "When we stop talking, the team falls apart." Practices consisted of hard drills, running and strenuous conditioning drills at the end. Coach Seaman had no doubts that her team could take the league championship, "It all depends on how bad they want it."

Running With The Wind

This was a tough year for Madison's Cross Country team. Having a much smaller team than in previous years, they practiced hard to be competitive with larger teams. Despite this they still fared well, winning a few meets and placing strong in county invitationals. As Mark Wilson said, "Despite our size we still have a good team."

"We all pushed each other and tried to improve together as a team."

This years team also had a very close togetherness. "We all pushed each other and tried to improve together as a team and not as individual runners," said Jack Tade. They worked out everyday after school, running eight to ten miles, and doing various types of speed work. Their hard work paid off as they had a memorable season.

Doing It In Shorts

Even though they were having fun in the sun, the long distance runners were working hard too. They were up early each day during the summer, getting a good start for the season meets. They met at Madison and left from there to do serious work outs. One of the favorite sites was San Clemente Canyon, known as the "desert." The girls team was invited to a invitational meet held at Mt. Carmel. This was no easy path. It contained hill work in a canyon, and was very dry. The runners for Madison did very well, finishing in the top thirty out of one-hundred. As school came along they found out the cross country team had a new coach. His name was

"Even though our team was small, everyone of us increased our will power and dedication as the season progressed."

Coach Hannon. He worked with the team discovering new ideas and learning about strategies. The team is not as big as in the past few years, but these dedicated runners gave it all they had. Everyone on the team was a captain, keeping each other in good shape and cheering each other on, encouraging each other to do better in each meet. Marcella Morris said, "I believe that even though our team was small, everyone of us increased our will power and dedication as the season progressed." The team had tough workouts, doing speed work at parks and concentrating on long distance running. "The team got along great," said Kim Viste. They supported each other and became close friends.

The Best Service In Town

This year's Madison Girls Tennis Team was full of spirit and dedication. With most of the team consisting of beginners there was a lot to be learned. The girls practiced diligently after school in order to become the best team possible. With over 20 girls on the team, it was larger than in previous years. Coach Betty Bennett led the girls through the season.

"I'm proud to be on the team."

She let them know right out front when they weren't doing well. She also kept the girls' spirits high with her care for them and her sense of humor.

The girls worked hard and in the end showed great improvement. With only a few returning players much help was needed training the newcomers to become familiar with the sport. Even though the victories were few, it didn't matter. What did matter was doing their best, gaining new friends and having fun. Maureen Zigrang summed it all up by saying, "I'm proud to be on the team and am looking forward to next year."

Heads Above Water

Well done," and "nice try," was often heard from the side lines of a typical Waterpolo game. "It is a real physical sport, a lot goes on above and below the water," as told by Dean Hervey, a top defense player. Endurance is important and nessesary. Everyone treads water, besides concentrating on plays and helping each other out.

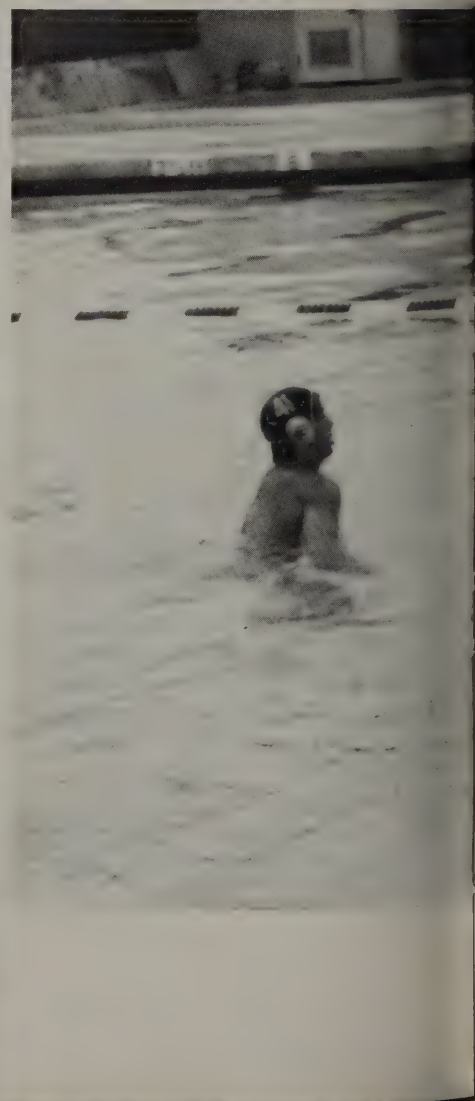

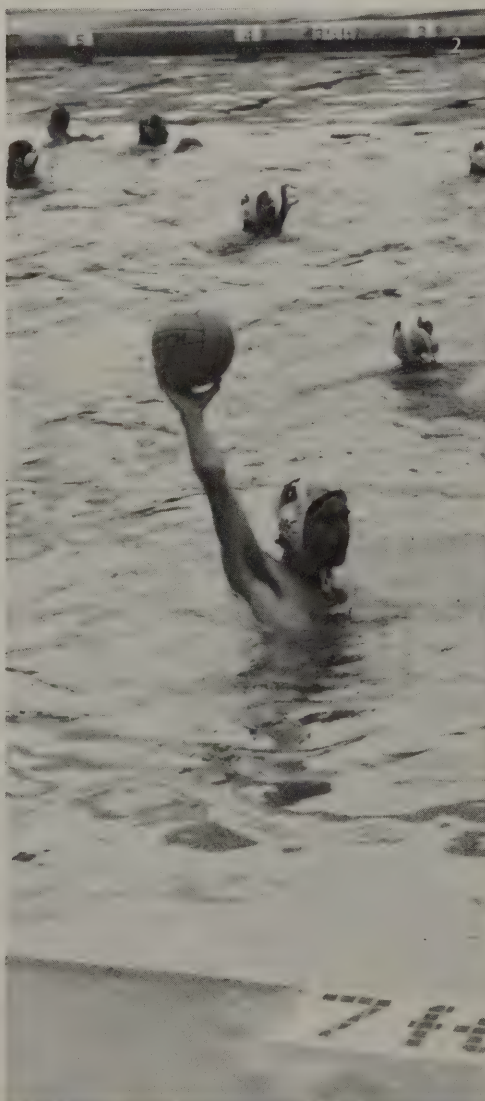

"Crowd support lagged heavily," commented Rod Pierce, a top senior team member. But the spirit was evident throughout the team. Cheers were given at every time out and quarter breaks. Rod also mentioned that no one really gets too upset about losing and that the game is played more for fun than competition. "The general attitude is to have fun and do our best to win."

"The general attitude is to have fun and do our best to win."

Sheldon Spicer coached Waterpolo as he has in years past. Some returning seniors from last year came to offer knowledge and experience. Eastern League play offs was a definate goal and preparations were made in afterschool workouts. Pushups, situps and yardage swimming were war-mups to the practice of offensive and defensive plays. Working together and being part of a team helped to instill responsibility in all those involved.

Bye, Bye Birdie

One sport that seemed to receive more attention this year was badminton. It was no longer thought of as a simple game. Players and spectators realized that badminton was a game that required a lot of work. It is a growing sport, and many students discovered its excitement. Junior, Maryanne Thompson, said, "It's a fun sport, and I really enjoy playing it." Many skills are involved. A player must be able to place the birdie, and be able to guard the court. As senior Agnes Thompson, said, "It's a game of strategy. "You have to work in order to do it right."

"It's a game of strategy."

Mary McCarthy coached the team every day after school. This dedication payed off. The team had many victories. The team members made new friends, and found badminton fun as well as challenging.

1. Coach McCarthy prepares for a match held in Madison's gym. 2. John Lindwall and Bill Benson concentrate on the oncoming birdie. 3. Roger Whitney shows his precise eye-hand coordination by anticipating the birdie. 4. Christie Konochick returns the birdie with a volley shot to her opponent. 5. Front Row: C. Davis-Shirley, M. Takin It To The Hoop

This year's varsity hoop-squad was the best that Madison has seen in years. The teams in the past had some problems, but these fellas played as if they had grown up on the same team.

Coach Hannon expected a good season. "We are much more team oriented than in the past." Coach John Hannon, the only varsity coach Madison has had, stressed team play a lot more than usual this year and it payed off. The team ran a perfected fast break that couldn't be stopped, and when they did set up their offense, their opponents had to watch out! The Mad-house could score from anywhere on the court.

The Hawks won their first seven games, beating third ranked Vista, Mt. Carmel, Sweetwater, and other tough teams. They placed third in the Kiwanis tournament, losing to Helix, and third in the Baron/Optimist Tournament, losing a heart-breaker to Vista.

"But then we're tough too."

The team had only two returning varsity players this year. 6'6" three year veteran forward Fred Rose, and 6'8" senior center Gerald Thomas were the foundation of the team. The rest of the squad was made up of last year's 19-4 Junior Varsity. The guards were junior Derrick Johnson at the point and Maurice Lewis, who was the team's leading scorer with a soft touch. To round out the starting five was 6'3" Duane Rush, a strong rebounder. The best thing about this year's team was their depth. Dean Szwabowski and Patrick Henry transfer, Paul Sedgwick got a lot of playing time at the guard's spot, while Otha Jackson and Max Wright relieved the forwards position.

Madison competed in the tough Eastern League, but that wasn't stopping the Warhawks. They had playoffs in their eyes. "It's going to be tough, but then we're tough too." said senior Gerald Thomas. That just about summarized this year's Warhawk Hoopsters-Tough.

Let's Play Ball.

Another big year for varsity softball. This year the team was invited to a tournament called the Coca-Cola Tournament during Christmas Vacation. Here they competed against several high schools from all over the county. At the tournament they played Hilltop, Castle Park, Southwest, Patrick Henry and Grossmount. The hardest team to play against was Patrick Henry. The game went three innings more than they usually play. The team pulled it out. With Kristie Skoglund on second, Kelly Smith, up to bat, hit a double, scoring Kristie to win the game. The team received first place trophies and Kristie Skoglund, Kelly Smith, and Trisha Mang received tournament player trophies for that tournament. Trisha Mang also received most valuable player also getting a trophy for it. The team gave up only four runs since November of 81. There were five returnees from last year; Trisha Mang, Marcella Quijencio, Cindy Reddinger, Kelly Smith, and Kristie Skoglund. Cathy Taylor said, "My strategy is to hit the ball hard and let the other team make the errors." The team worked three hours after school with their coach, Phil Hampton. Phil has been a returnee for several years now. He never slacks on his practices. They did different drills and different plays when people get on base. Madison's team had three sophomores who played the infield. They were DiDi Prue, who played first base; Cathy Taylor, who played second base; and Pam Smith, who played third base. Cindy Rios and Kim Viste gave a little edge in base-running while Jennifer Maderazo swung a strong and capable bat. Madison finished high during the season and went on to the C.I.F., also doing well.

Squeeze Play

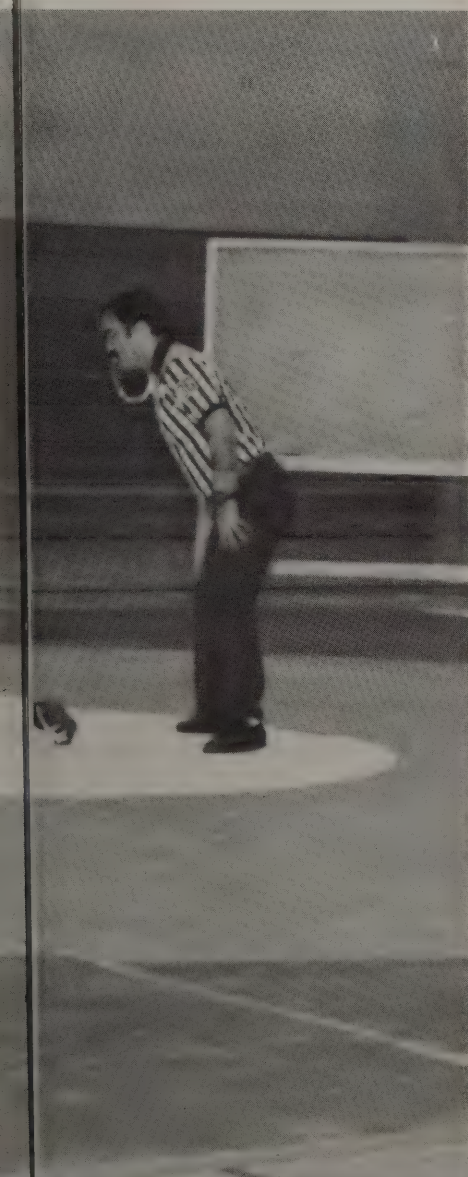

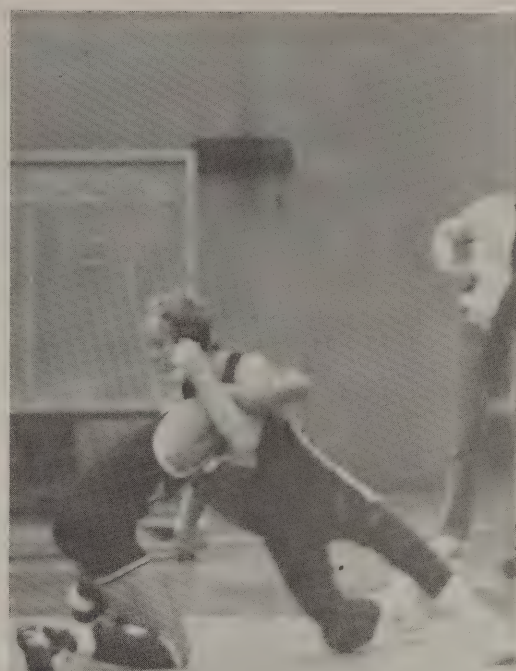

Defeating your opponent, winning, that's what Madison's wrestling team was all about. Even though it was called a team, when they were wrestling they were out there all by themselves. "When you lose, there is no one to blame but yourself," says Russ Trepanier, third year wrestler. The hardest part about wrestling was mental conditioning. This was achieved in a variety of ways. Russ said, "The worst part was when you know you didn't do your best." Many chose wrestling because of it's one-on-one competitiveness, and they liked it better than a team sport. The wrestling skills needed consisted of physical strength, mental conditioning, the right moves and thinking ahead what your opponents next move would be. Not thinking ahead was called barnyarding. Madisons coach this year was Ivan Olsen, better known as "Uncle Ive" by the wrestlers. The wrestling moves were demonstrated by Tony Roberts the assistant coach. Determination, good coaches, and team spirit gave Madison many hard earned and well deserved victories.

"When you lose, there is no one to blame but yourself."

The Bennett Bunch

Why field hockey over all other sports? "Because it was something new and different to me. I wanted to try it because it looked challenging, although it is a lot of hard work. It's not as easy as it looks," commented Jill Lollis, a member of this year's field hockey team.

The team practiced hard every day from 1:00 to 3:00 which consisted of running around the entire field along with stretching and exercises. The team this year was much larger than in previous years because there was no real distinction between varsity and junior varsity.

Their games lasted for approximately 1 hour and ranged from 1 to 3 games a week. When asked if there was a lot of team spirit at games, Senior Tara Kuglen replied, "There is some team spirit, but at times we could use more."

The team consisted of about 25 players and each one played as important a part as the next and seemed to think that endurance was the hardest part of playing field hockey.

Feets Of Magic

How many people do you know that can control a moving ball with their feet? The sixteen guys on Madison's soccer team surely can. With sixteen skilled players on his team, Coach Jeff Illingworth believed that his team had to be one of the most favored teams to win the 1983 CIF playoffs. He stated, "Attitudes and determination need to improve more—they have the skill and ability, but hard work can be the deciding factor." Mark McLaughlin said, "If we do win CIF, the players don't deserve all the credit because we have a very good coach who knows the game." This is a fact that all the players agreed upon. They all had a great respect for their coach which helped team morale tremendously.

"Soccer requires physical endurance but also a lot of mental capacity. You have to be able to think ahead."

Training sessions included fitness work, individual skill workouts, teamwork and set plays; aiming for maximum teamwork success. A good player needs individual skill, knowledge of teamwork, fitness, and a good attitude. All of the players had much experience. Many had played anywhere from five to ten years. Leading scorer, Scott Rommel, who is just a sophomore, had been playing for eight years. It's not a wonder that Madison was a CIF favorite. They had many "feets of magic."

Experience Is Everything

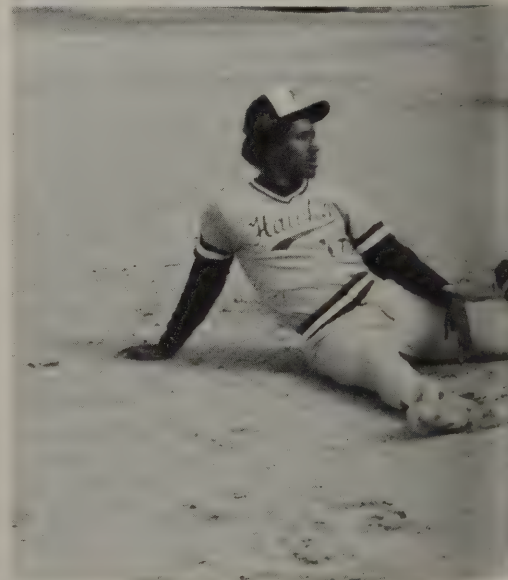

"This year the Warhawks combined speed, pitching, defense, and a high batting average for success," said Coach Roeder of his Varsity Baseball Team. The biggest difference this year was experience. Last year the team was good but not as experienced. This year their talent and experience gave them better chances of a league title. Their experience showed not only in skill, but in attitude towards the game and towards each other as well. Everyone supported each other, which made a better nucleus within the team.

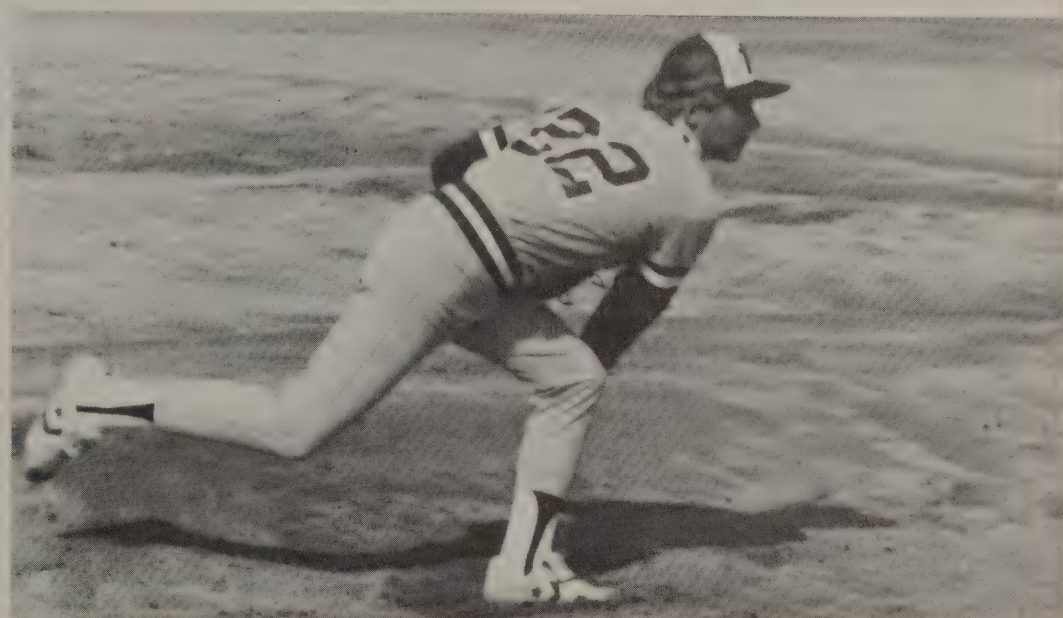

"Warhawks combined speed, pitching, defense, and a high batting average."

The team was made up of a lot of the same people who were on varsity last year and some good JV players from last year as well. The leadership of the Warhawks came from outstanding Seniors like Manuel Gomes, catcher; David Geck, shortstop; Todd Buck, second baseman; Eric Schaldach, pitcher; Mark Young, outfielder; Reggie Farmer, outfielder; and Jerry Krey, outfielder. Joe Valle and Jeff Oswalt were Juniors who brought good talent to the varsity this year also. Their strong outfield, quick infield, and good pitching staff, and experience gave the Warhawks the chance to be an outstanding team.

Catch You On The Rebound

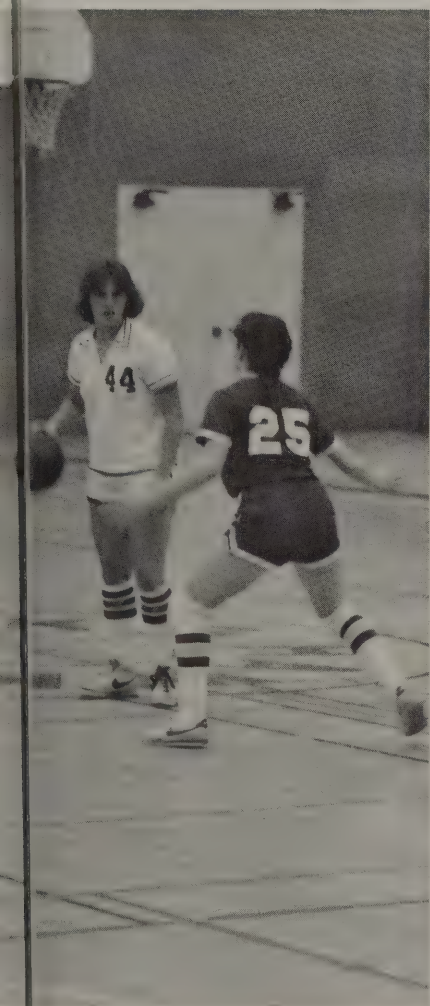

The Girl's Varsity Basketball team was at their greatest this year. Their first game gave the players encouragement to keep trying their best so that they could win more games throughout the season. Yosmia Perkins said, "We get some pain, we gain a lot of anxiety, but get to the rebound quicker." The first Varsity Basketball game was played at Madison, against Romona, on February 23. The coach of the girls basketball team was Coach Seaman. She worked the girls hard with exercizes, running, drills, different plays; offensive and defensive plays. Practices were held everyday during 6th period and after school. The more they worked together the more they were a help to one another. Stephine Smith said, "We have a very good chance to play in the CIF Playoffs. Our team shows their efforts, and we all work together as a team." Another player on the team was Sharon Seek. Sharon Seek said, "We're hoping to reach to CIF this year, we know what's ahead of us. Backhand Forth

Hardworking, dedicated and confident. These are just a few aspects of the Boys Varsity Tennis Team. Many of the guys were quite experienced, having played for four years and up. "To become a good tennis player," said Richard Kim, "one has to practice a lot and enter tournaments." Many of the players added that it was wise to take lessons to improve their game.

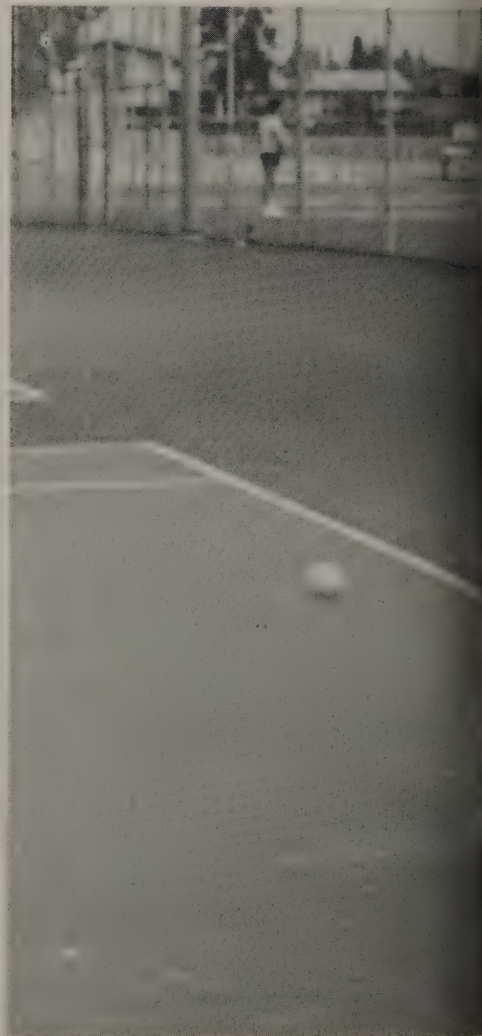

Tennis is a game where intense concentration is mandatory. "A player can get discouraged from one simple mistake and it can ruin his whole game," stated Richard Kim, a two year veteran of the team. But the Hawks tried not to let the mistakes overcome them. They had positive attitudes and worked hard to achieve their goals.

On The Right Track

Over the past few years, Madison's Varsity Track Team has been trying to regain the prominence of past Madison teams. Because of their hard work they now have begun to accomplish their goal. They are On the Right Track.

This year's team was led by returning let-termen Jack Tade, Phil Derango, and Max Wright. All three contributed knowledge and experience to the team. They helped the younger competitors with their training. As Jack Tade said, "I enjoy helping the younger guys. I remember when I was there and that's what I wanted."

The team was hurt in the beginning of the season by a number of competitors that were injured or ineligible. Yet once they began to compete the team began to solidify. The team was extremely strong at the end of the season and their goal was looking them in the eyes for next year.

Fancy Footwork

Track is a sport that takes a lot of dedication, a physically fit athlete and quality equipment. For a weekend runner, a pair of shoes with no soles which have holes on both sides will do. Throwing a frisbee may look something like a discus. Baseball cleats instead of spike Pumas could be used for the 440 relay by weekend athletes, but Miss McCarthy and Miss Hamilton and their athletes are not your weekend runners. Even though the team this year isn't as large as usual.

"I would rather have a quality team than a lot of girls who do not work out."

Miss Hamilton said, "I would rather have a quality team than a lot of girls who do not work out." Both coaches were sure they were going to have a successful year because of a lot of talent. The team worked together as a unit for 2 hours after school; doing speed work, long and triple jump, hurdles, discus and shot put, and best of all long distance running.

Winning In The Water

With two hours a day for practice at the Miramar Naval Air Station, there can be no doubt that the Varsity Boys Swim Team was a dedicated one. The team, which was headed by Coach Spicer, was a well-organized, hardworking group. Although they only had three returning varsity swimmers from the previous season, their strong drive and hard work made the season a rewarding one for all.

Sheldon Spicer, the ever-popular team coach, spent long hours with the guys perfecting their technique in various strokes, such as back, butterfly, breast, and freestyle. "He is always there to make you feel more confident," commented Rob Pierce. Said Mike Anselm, "He can be tough at times, but he's really understanding."

"... tough at times, but he's really understanding."

Everyone gave a full 100% to the team and in return received the glory of many victories. This year's Varsity Boys Swim Team, along with Coach Spicer, had not only the success of a good season to be proud of, but a great feeling of accomplishment to remember in the years to come.

Aqua Maids

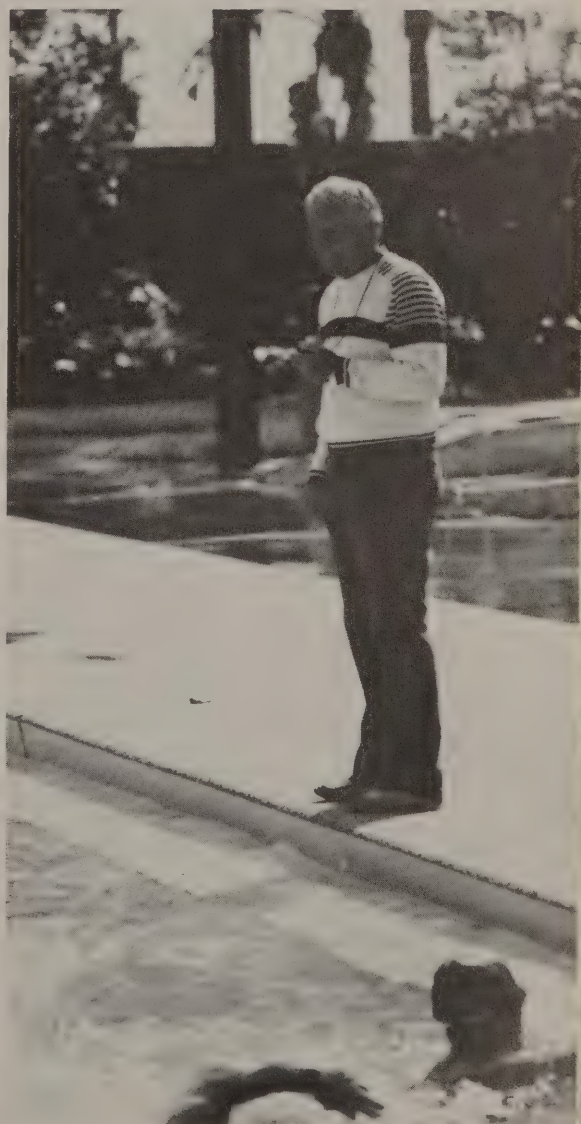

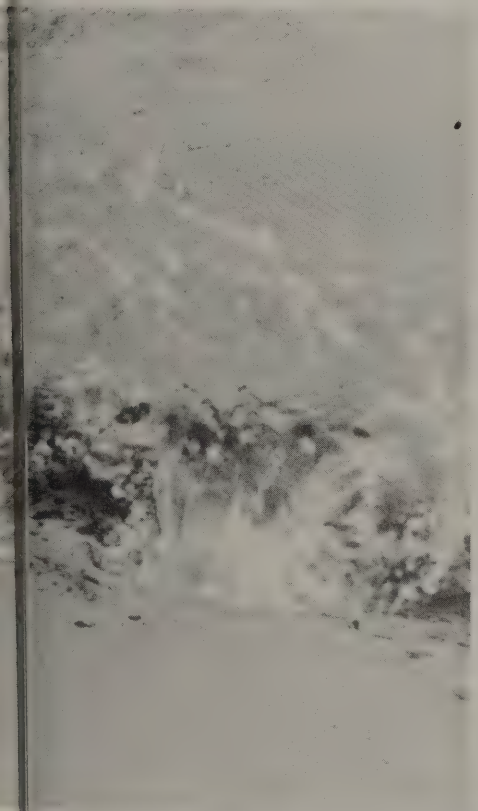

The girls Varsity Swim Team consisted of many athletic girls. Some of which have been swimming for years. Cathy Rosendal had been swimming for about 5 years prior to this year. Marcella Morris has been swimming for 9 years. Five days a week these girls met in the school parking lot at 1pm and went to Miramar Naval Air Station and practiced vigorously for 2-3 hours and swam over 4,000 meters per day. The work outs consisted of sets of Butterfly, Backstroke, Freestyle and Pull and Kick sets. On Fridays they had relays for the last fifteen minutes of practice. As Marcella Morris put it, "Every swimmer on the team this year strove for individual success and to meet the goals of our team for the season." This year was the first year that Coach Spicer had coached for the girls swim team and he said, "The girls worked hard and I enjoyed working with them." This year was also the first year that the guys and the girls worked out together. Ruth Walker commented, "Working out together doesn't affect me at all." The swimmers worked hard and it was easily seen at their matches.

Baby Hawks Hatch Out Of The Shell

The 1982 Junior Varsity Football Team was led by outstanding sophomores. Some of the leaders were: Hector Rodriguez, Jeff Sturch, Mike Thomas, Matt Meade, Jon McRae, Jerry Fontaine, Pat Maul, Mark Riles, Anthony Hardy, Kevin Cartwright, and Tim Powers. They were looking toward a winning year, and did an outstanding job. Their Coach, Bob Roeder, was successful in helping the team come a long way. They not only had games to attend and play, but every day during sixth period they had practice, and Coach Roeder made sure they practiced hard.

"The offensive line is impenetrable."

The defensive coaches, Ali Shatula and Tony Berry, and the offensive coaches, Jamie Garcia and Mike DeDominico, made sure they got their plays right and ran them through the correct way. Over all, the team had a lot of spirit and really put forth an effort. Coach Roeder said, "We have a strong team but we could have been stronger if we showed up for more practice." The quarterback, Jeff Sturch, said, "We are a good team, and we're going to work hard and take first place." By the end of the seventh game, Jeff Sturch had thrown six touchdowns— not bad for a sophomore! This year, the defensive and offensive lines worked very hard to tackle and block for their quarterback. Johnny Gogue said, "We had a good defense and offense, but we're going to put more work into it." "Our offense likes to run the ball a lot and the team works together very well," said Anthony Hardy.

J.V. Bumpers

The first game of the season against University City High School was a good example of how great our Junior Varsity Volleyball team played this past year. The game was won by the Hawks by two to one.

The games consist of the best two out of three sets, if the first two sets are ties then there will be a third set, but if the first two sets are won by one team, there is no need for a third set. Each and every girl demonstrated her skill in every game of the season. The year went smoothly for them, and by the end of the season they were all proud at what they had achieved. At the first of the season, Mrs. Hamilton stated: "The team looks especially good this year, all other teams watch out!" That statement held true throughout the whole season.

"All other teams watch out!"

The girls had practice three times a week for two hours a day, and their time as well spent, as anyone could easily see. They were very enthused about playing volleyball their best, and boy did it pay off!

J.V. Road-runners

This year's Junior Varsity Cross-Country team was joined together with the Varsity team. They practiced together each day after school. They also had some meets together; their meets were held at Morley Field in Balboa Park. At their practices they practiced the long distance run which was eight miles long. They also did speed work which was four miles, each mile individually timed.

The year started out in their favor. They won against Morse and Kearny and lost to

"It sure takes guts to be a runner."

Mira Mesa. The rest of the year was also in their favor. The whole team was enthusiastic and liked to run. There was no specific prominent runner. Each and every runner was an asset to the team. Coach Hannon stated that the team was great this year, and, "I admire all of the boys, it sure takes guts to be a runner." Now that the school year is over they can all look back and always remember what an accomplishment they made for themselves and this school.

New Coach For JV Hawks

This was a very successful season for Madison's Junior Varsity Basketball Team. Everyone involved with the program worked extremely hard to prepare for the tough games ahead. The players' workout consisted of offensive and defensive drills, along with free-throws and other things to help develop the skills necessary to play the game.

This year the team had a new coach to help the players along and teach them. The coach was Jim Thompson. The team quickly got used to the new ideas Coach Thompson had. Coach Thompson said, "I really enjoy working with the boys. They are all so eager to learn." The team liked working with the coach also, and besides working hard they were able to have fun. That was the main reason the boys went out for the team.

"They are all so eager to learn."

Working For Excellence

For several years Madison's Softball Teams have been among the top in the county. A big reason for their success is that over those years the junior varsity organization has done an excellent job of preparing the girls for the varsity squad. This year's team was exceptionally good, winning nearly all of their games. A few of the teams standouts were: Heidi Viste, First Base; Rockie Quijencio, Pitcher; Cyndi Pais, Second Base; Julie Oro, Shortstop; Linda Greek, Left Field.

The team's coach, Ms. McCarthy, has been the coach for many seasons and is the key in helping the junior varsity players prepare for varsity. She is very proud of her girls and will not hesitate to praise them. "They are just a splendid bunch of girls and they work so hard. I think our team can play at the same level as many varsity teams at other schools." The team appreciated Ms. McCarthy's confidence in them, and it made them work even harder.

"I think our team can play at the same level as many varsity teams at other schools."

Take Down

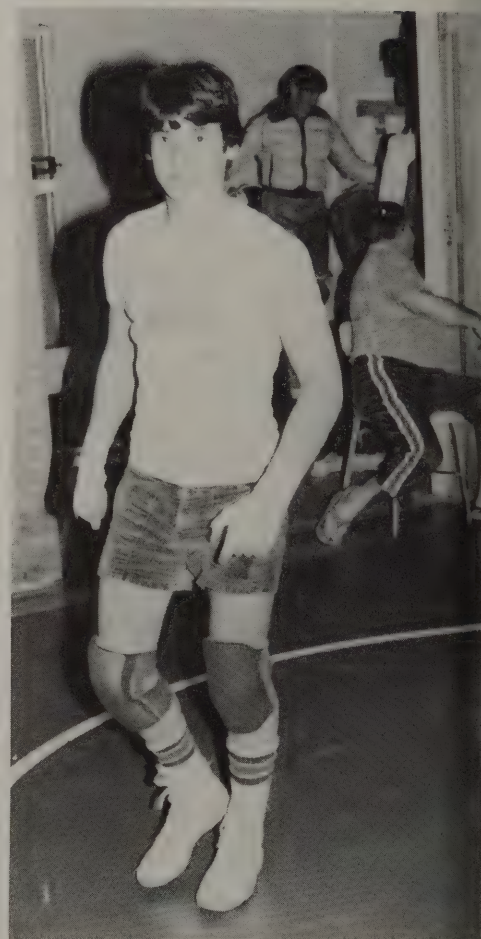

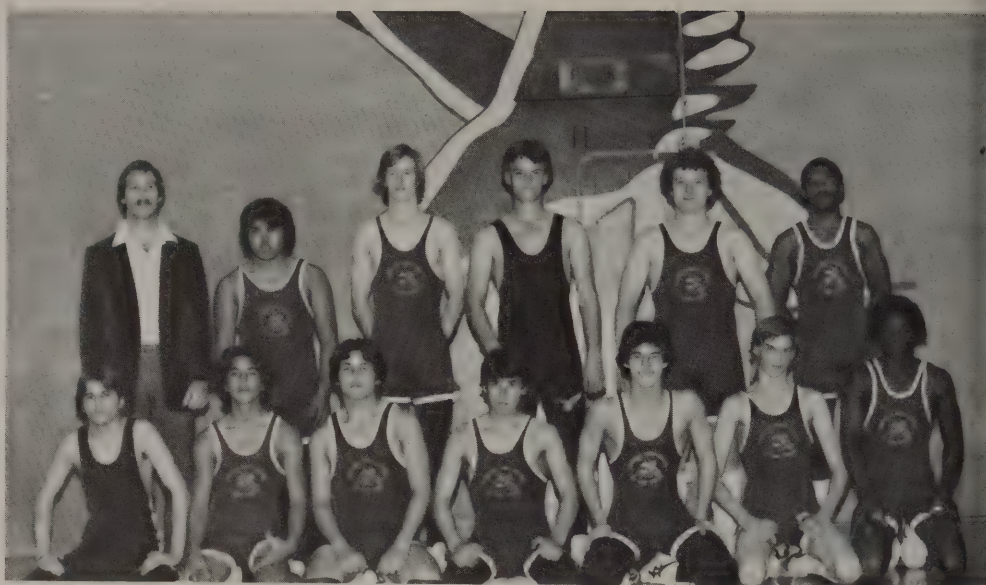

A question asked of most wrestlers is, "Why do you do it?" "For fun. It makes a regular day a little more exciting," commented David Glassford, a junior varsity wrestler.

It was a hard sport. Practices lasted about two hours during which they wore layers of sweats in an attempt to make their weight classes which were 95 to 245 pounds. In practice they ran bleachers, did calisthenics such as push-ups, sit-ups, and excercises to strengthen the upper body.

Much of their strength came from practicing with and against varsity members. Through this, the JV Hawks also picked up the advanced skills and the winning attitude of the varsity team. This helped keep them one jump ahead of their competition. Joe Elsworth, a three year wrestler, said, "The team is always behind you no matter if you win or lose." With this attitude the wrestlers seemed to win more then they lost.

J.V. Strikes 'Em Out

The arrival of spring also brings the arrival of JV Baseball, under the direction of Coach Berry. Their practices consisted of stretching and jogging around the field and about an hour and a half of infield-outfield maneuvers. Jon McRae, the catcher for the team, commented, "With the practices we have had team of the future."

we gained experience for the future." Most of the guys on the team have been playing for six to eight years, and would like to go on to Varsity in the future. Averall Coleman said, "We're really a close unit. Everyone gives it his all and we help one another out. This is the varsity team of the future."

1. Coach Berry hits some practice balls to the outfield. 2. Troy Pelot gets the put out at first base. 3. Awaiting the batters hit is Stacey Morrison. 4. Front Row: B. Peterson, Fletcher, T. Kent, G. Martinez, W. Soto, D. Mangan, D. Riddle, R. Gutierrez, Coach Berry. Top Row: M. Woodruff, M. Lewis, C. Buckmeir, S. Morrison, T. Pelot, A. Coleman, J. McRae.

Hoop-It!

They run, dribble, pass, and shoot. No, this is not soccer, it's similar; it's basketball. J.V. girls basketball this season was quite successful. Team member, Pam Smith, stated, "This team can definitely be a championship team." With an almost perfect record, the J.V. members agreed that they learned more and got better everyday. At practice they did many running drills, worked on basic skills such as dribbling and passing and practiced offensive and defensive strategies.

As a J.V. squad they worked together well, which is essential in a team sport such as basketball. Said Pam Smith, "A one-man team is never successful." Rochelle Quijencio added, "Our team works hard in practice and it shows in the games." The girls never minded much about the hard work, all that mattered was winning and it was worth it.

1. The girls go over their next play. 2. Pam Smith shows skill as she dribbles down the court. 3. Nikki Troy prepares to block an opponent. 4. The girls on the sideline cheer for their teammates.

Fewer Trackers

Although Track and Field offers a wide variety of events to participate in, the turn out of sophomores was small. The problem was a result of a smaller sophomore student body this year. It was expected that the fewer numbers on the JV team, would effect the quantity and quality of next years varsity team. Coach Schuler feels, "The few sophomores who did join, had good potential." The team has a lot of enthusiasm and more important, they were willing to go out and try. The enthusiasm was shared by sophomores like Alan Burnes, Mike Simmons, and Barry Tucker. The determination was shared by other field event participants like Tom Wirges, whose determination and strong arm in shotput, showed his great potential.

1. Troy Buck leads the track team in the 1 mile run. 2. Tom Wirges shows great form in preparing to throw the shot put. 3. Lee Sherman gets ready to leap over the high hurdles. 4. Members of the team race down the track for another victory.

Superstars

Up Front

The first team to make C.I.F. was football. They won almost every game, including the playoffs. They placed second in the eastern league. Varsity Basketball had a bit of bad time at the playoffs, Madison won the eastern league championship, but because of the controversy of an ineligible player on Morse, Madison was unfairly forced out of post season play. The girls Varsity Softball Team did well this year and made C.I.F. for the third straight year in a row. Marcella Quijencio stated, "It was an exciting and different experience because we played a different team." The Varsity Girls Tennis Team showed all of their opponants just what it takes to be a tennis pro. Cross-Country this year had only one person to make playoffs, a varsity runner named Jack Tate. Varsity Volleyball really 'bumped' their way into the playoffs, and made a great name for themselves. With hard work and determination, Soccer achieved their highest set goal and made C.I.F. for the second year in a row.

"It was an exciting and different experience because we played a different team."

1. The Varsity Volleyball Team walks off the court with smiles because of a victory. 2. Mark McLaugli- advances toward the soccerball during a home game. 3. The cheerleading squad salutes America before a game.

1. Just about to return the ball to her opponent is Tricia Loftus. 2. Ready to catch the ball and make a play is the Varsity Girls Softball Team. 3. The Madison center gets ready to hike the ball to the quarterback who is calling out play numbers. 4. Fred Rose shoots a free throw during a home game.

Creativity

Last night I flew like a bird in the sky
through the moonlit air,
I soared like an eagle to the top without really going nowhere.

For the first time in my days
I seemed to enjoy my sight, swiftly gliding to and fro,
through the starry night.

I flew over cities, quiet and dark while everyone nestled in bed,
I did all this and so much more
all inside my head.

Sandra Smith

Reach It

Whatever you do,
Wherever you are
May wisdom guide your way
As you reach for your star
And may you find always
While time is close by
No dream is to lofty
No goal is to high!

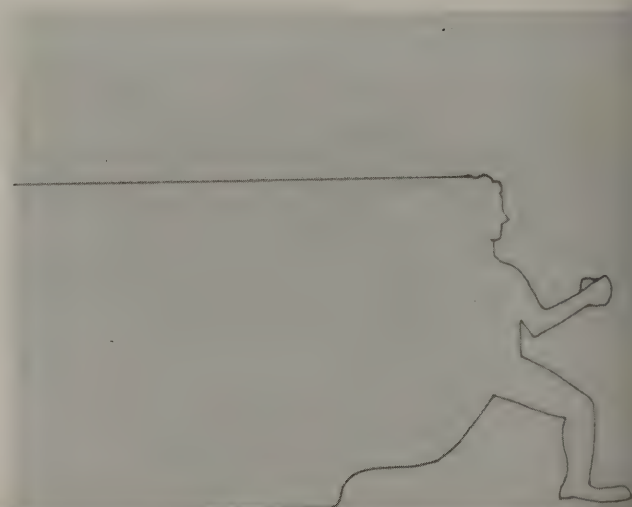

Lisa Ogden

No love here
Only pain
No one to care
Alone again
Lend me your shoulder
And I'll share my pain
Maybe you'll cry for two
And maybe I'll just feel the same
'Cause with no love to give I've no love to receive
I don't want to hurt you
So you'd better just leave
My hard heart
Will never change
No love here
Only pain

For every moment of your life, something should be said.
Thoughts to be remembered, of the life you've led.

Live life to the fullest,
for it is not a game.
The seconds that tick away
will never be the same.

The time when we're alone,
The time when we're at rest.
Please remember it always for it's when we're at our best.

A moment should not be wasted,
the memories, they should last.
The memories that are full of, the future, present and past.

Sandra Smith

Throughout the years
Your guiding tears
Have pushed us on and on
At times your methods seemed harsh or strict
Though now they're almost gone
Through all the years that we have known
The fun, the fights that we've outgrown
Through good times and bad, you've seen us forego.
For our lives, to you we are deeply in debt
You taught us your knowledge with promises you kept
As the graduating class we'll hope for the best
And push on through life with this knowledge
We'll invest.

The BIG Ending!

Jennifer,
I'm glad we had a class together this year because we never see each other! We've been friends for along time and you are still a super sweet person and I know you'll never change! Have a great summer and party hardy! If you want to, call me up and we can hit some parties! Take it easy!

Friends Always,
Michelle

The summer of 1983 may be a symbol to many students of the end. The end of spring or the end of another school year, for some the end of high school. But for our year at Madison, it can also be thought of as the beginning. For sophomores it is the beginning of their high school years. For the juniors, it is the beginning of the most important part of their life; planning their future. As for the graduating seniors it is the beginning of a new and adventurous life. Everyone will meet new challenges, that in many ways will be very special and important to them.

There are many endings to be remembered from this year; the end of a climactic football game or the end of the years best dance. To each student these may bring good or bad memories, but memories have a tendency to fade, especially bad memories. To be sure that all the memories do not fade these pages have captured the past year ... As best remembered.

The End

1. Marching Band with an awesome ending to their routine at the West Covina Competition. 2. Mobley shows off the results of his new diet. 3. Relaxing during lunch, Charles Northdurst enjoys the sunshine.
